GENERAL REVIEW.

Hon. William T. Baker, President, Board of Trade of the City of Chicago:

I have the honor to submit herewith the thirty-ninth annual report of the Board of Trade of the City of Chicago.

The year just closed has been, both in its commercial and political features, one of uncertainties fraught with extreme apprehen-Uncertainties which involve no serious issues are of small moment, but when, as during the year last past, they wait upon exceedingly grave commercial interests, commerce—alert, cautious vigilant and intense—is full of solicitude. The history of business. for the last few years has prompted, if not compelled, merchants in every department of trade and in all markets to conduct their business along ultra conservative lines; and even upon such a basis the world of traffic and finance, startled by repeated surprises, has not only had its confidence shaken by foreseen dangers, but has been filled with apprehension of unknown calamities. It is most assuredly a cause of congratulation, when so many misfortunes and disasters accentuate the year in the great world of business, that no failure has occurred in the membership of this association—at least not any of consequence. You may look elsewhere in vain for an equally favorable record. Fortunate it is indeed that such important interests as are included in the boundless agricultural resources of our country, are managed and handled by such sagacious In no other department of business are there so few conservatism. risks and so short and economical a distance between the producer and consumer, the seller and buyer as in marketing the great food products of the United States. In no other department of business is there so close an approach to an actual indeed, by far the majority of transactions is absolutely upon a cash basis. In no other department of business is there so general and thorough a dissemination of reliable commercial intelligence in the interest of both buyer and seller—intelligence from all parts of the world, and promptly distributed without any expense either to producer or consumer—as with regard to the chief crops of the country. No man, no market, no syndicate of merchants or money lenders, can withhold or monopolize information concerning the chief grain crops and the meat supplies of the country; and thus, all, from the farmer sowing the seed, to the humblest laborer enjoying its fruits, may know of prices, supplies and demand, in every quarter of the globe. No business is more frankly, promptly, safely, honorably and economically conducted than is the business in grain and provisions, upon which the advantageous conduct of all other branches of business, to a very large extent, depends. It constructs territories and states; it builds railroads and spans rivers; it creates and maintains a vast lake marine and establishes great seaports; it loads canal boats and barges, and great steamers that plough the ocean; it erects warehouses and packing-houses along its wonderful pathway from prairie to port, and sets in motion the complex but harmonious machinery of countless employments that make up our expanding and beneficent national commercial life.

The annual average exports of agricultural products for the last five years constitute 72.60 per cent. of the total domestic exports. As the general prosperity depends absolutely upon agricultural prosperity, the business of the members of this board is vitally related to that of the manufacturer, artisan, mechanic, laborer, tradesman and to all wage earners, and consequently is of the greatest commercial importance and significance.

The crop of wheat raised in the United States during 1896, aggregated 427,684,346 bushels, as compared with 467,103,000 bushels during 1895, and 460,267,000 bushels during 1894; the crop of corn aggregated 2,283,875,165 bushels, as compared with 2,151,138,580 bushels raised during 1895, and 1,212,770,052 during 1894. The crop of last year was by far the largest ever raised, though its farm value was $63,712,195 less than that of the year 1894.

The crop of oats aggregated 707,346,404 bushels, as against 824,443,537 bushels produced during 1895 and 662,036, 928 bushels during 1894.

The crop of barley aggregated 69,695,223 bushels, as against 87,072,744 bushels during 1895. The crop of rye aggregated 24,369,047 bushels as against 27,210,047 bushels during 1895. The crop of hay aggregated 59,282,158 tons, valued at $388,145,614 as against 47,078,541 tons valued at $393,185,615 produced during 1895. The crop of potatoes aggregated during the year 252,234,-540 bushels, valued at $72,182,350, as against 297,237,370 bushels produced during 1895, valued at $78,984,901.

The estimated farm value of these chief crops, comprising wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, hay and potatoes, as ascertained by the United States Agricultural Department, was $1,426,874,513.

The estimated value of the crops of wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley, aggregated $966,546,549 as compared with $987,856,839 in 1895.

The following is a review by the United States Department of Agriculture of the chief crops during the periods of germination, giving conditions from time to time, also yield and various percentages, affording reliable data for purposes of comparison; all conducing to an intelligent judgment of market values and agricultural and industrial prospects.

REVIEW OF CROP CONDITIONS FOR 1896.

WHEAT.

A severe drought at seeding time, from which scarcely a county in the entire winter-wheat belt was exempt, retarded or prevented germination, thus bringing the December condition down to 81.4, against 89 for the previous December (1894), 91.5 for December, 1893, and an average of 92 for the same date in the ten years 1887 to 1896. The crop had a further disaster to encounter in an exceptionally scanty snow covering, this deficiency being as generally distributed as the lack of autumnal rain preceding it. Much of the sparse growth that had succeeded in making a start was thereby winter-killed, so that many fields in the central region were plowed up for spring crops. The first spring report showed a condition of 77.1, against 81.4 for April, 1895, and 86.7 for the same date in 1894.

The improved condition reported May 1 was unfortunately not maintained. From the early days of that month until harvest there was a steady decline, the figures being for May, 82.7 (5.6 per cent. better than the April average); for June, 77.9 (a fall of 4.8 per cent.), and for July, 75.6, against 65.8 for July 1, 1895. As examples of the explanations offered for this decline, a few notes from correspondents may be given:

In Pennsylvania, much winter-killed. In Ohio, greatly damaged in quantity and quality by fly and rust. In Michigan, by the same causes; also unfavorable conditions at seeding time. In several Mississippi Valley States, especially in Kansas, quality was below expectations and grain shown by thrashing to be disappointingly light; probable cause, ill-distributed rainfall.

Spring wheat showed a condition of 99.9 in June, 93.3 in July, and 78.9 in August; a flattering early promise unfortunately not fulfilled. The causes adduced for this steady deterioration were insect enemies, especially in Michigan and Wisconsin; rust; heavy rains, in Iowa; and dry and exceptionally hot weather, generally.

Condition of winter and spring wheat combined: 87.6 in June, 83.4 in July, 74.6 when harvested. The final condition was 75.4 in 1895 and 83.7 in 1894. Accompanying the September reports, complaints both of quantity and of quality were universal, a few scattered counties only excepted, east of the Rocky Mountains.

Besides the causes of deficient growth and the insect injuries previously reported, much trouble had been caused by rains following harvest, from which a considerable percentage of the grain sprouted or rotted in the shock. On the Pacific Slope the condition was far more favorable, a full crop being reported in California, Nevada, and Utah, with fairly high figures from adjoining States. The small wheat product of New England also seems to have been specially favored, and reports better than the average came also from New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland.

Though better returns at the end of the year increased by a fraction of a bushel the general average yield per acre given in October, the final figure—hardly 12.4 bushels per acre—was 10 per cent. short of the 13.7 bushels reported for 1895.

CORN.

The spring was favorable for early plowing, the amount finished by May 1-79.6 per cent-being more than an average, though less than was reported for the years just preceding—82.8 per cent. for 1895, 83.5 for 1894. The first report of condition, July 1, gave an average of 92.4, against 99.3 for July, 1895, the less favorable start being explained by too wet weather from Indiana to Missouri and too dry weather toward the Gulf. August condition showed an increase of 3.6 per cent. being 96, against 102.5 in 1895. By September this advance had been lost, and the general average had fallen to 91, the condition at the same date the year before having been 96.4, the deterioration for both years alike being due to dry weather. The October condition was 90.5, against 95.5 in 1895, and yet when the preliminary yield came to be estimated in November, 1896, was found to be a bushel ahead of its predecessor. The final return of yield shows an average of 28.2 bushels per acre, a further advance on preceding esti-The average yield in 1880 was 27.6 bushels, and the highest reported figures since that date were 27 in 1889 and 1891. In 1895 the average was 26.2, the unprecedented crop of that year being due to an unprecedented acreage. In 1896, on an acreage 1.3 per cent. less, a yield 7.6 per cent. greater gave a total product 6.2 per cent. greater, so that the year's corn crop exceeded by that percentage any other ever produced in the country's history.

This immense crop came principally from a territory including Virginia, Kentucky, northern Missouri, Nebraska, and northward.

In this territory, including most of the States of largest corn acreage, the drought was not in time for serious injury to the crop, and the fierce heat of midsummer promoted its growth. To the south of the border thus drawn drought in the early summer and heavy rains at the end of the season greatly reduced the yield, particularly toward the Gulf. The cotton States all send unfavorable returns, Texas calling this crop the "poorest since the war." Late corn seems to have suffered worst in most cases. This was just the area where the yield was exceptionally great in 1895. In Oregon also and a few other States not important for corn the crop was scanty. In New England generally good yield was cut down in several localities by late frosts.

Correspondents make various reports about the quality of the crop. In the great corn States it is generally fair, though there are many local complaints of impairment by insects or smut; while late flooding rains, particularly near the Mississippi, besides retarding the husking and storing of the corn, have rotted a considerable part of it in the shock. Frosts in the northeast impaired quality as well as quantity.

OATS.

The condition of oats was 98.8 on the 1st of June and 96.3 on the 1st of July. During July there was a serious decline, and the condition on August 1 was only 77.3, heavy rains, rust, the army worm, and chinch bugs being among the chief causes of the unfavorable change. A further decline occurred after August 1 in oats not then harvested, and the average harvest condition for the entire crop was only 74. In 1896 the June condition was 14.5 above and the harvest condition 12 points below the corresponding figures for the previous year. The average yield per acre was 25.7 bushels. As compared with 1895 the reduction is 1.1 per cent. in area, 13.2 per cent. in rate of yield, and 14.2 per cent. in total product.

RYE.

The crop of winter rye was of course affected to a great extent by the same general causes which affected winter wheat. Its average condition on April 1 was 82.9; May 1, 87.7; June 1, 85.2; July 1, 83.8. The average condition of spring rye was 98.6 on July 1, and 88 on August 1. The condition at harvest for rye in general was 82, the average yield being 13.3 bushels. The area is about 3.1 per cent., the average rate of yield 7.6 per cent., and the total product 10.4 per cent. less than in 1895.

BARLEY.

The average condition of winter barley on May 1 was 89.2, against 94 at the corresponding date in 1895. The condition of barley in general on June 1 was 98; July 1, 88.1; August 1, 82.9; when harvested, 83.1. The average yield per acre was 23.6 bushels. The area and rate of yield were each 10.6 per cent. and the total product about 20 per cent. less than in 1895.

BUCKWHEAT.

The average condition of buckwheat was 96 on August 1, and 93.2 a month later. It suffered during September by wind and frost, and its condition on October 1 was only 86. The average yield per acre was 18.7 bushels, and the quality ranged from 90 to 100, except for a small part of the crop. The area was about 1.1 per cent., the yield per acre about 7 per cent., and the total product about 8.2 per cent. less than in 1895.

POTATOES.

The average condition through the season is shown by the following figures: July 1, 99; August 1, 94.8; September 1, 83.2; October 1, 81.7. The chief decline in condition occurred during August, the causes mentioned by correspondents comprising drought in many States, excessive rain in a series of States extending from Pennsylvania as far westward as Iowa, and blight, rust, potato rot, and insect ravages, particularly those of the potato bug. The average yield per acre was 86.8 bushels, against 101 bushels in 1895, a reduction of more than 14 per cent. The area was about 6½ per cent. and the total product about 19.2 per cent less than in 1895. Fifteen States had an increased crop as compared with 1895; Ohio, Illinois, Nebraska, Indiana, South Dakota and West Virginia being the more important ones.

THE GRASSES AND THE HAY CROP.

The condition of pastures throughout the season is represented by the following figures: May 1, 93.2; June 1, 94.5; July 1, 91; August 1, 93.9. The August figures were 16.1 points higher than those for August 1, 1895.

Clover had an average condition of 88.4 on June 1 and 83.7 on July 1, newly sown clover having in general fared best, notwith-standing some damage from grasshoppers. The figures for August 1 indicated 81 per cent. of a full crop, and although considerable damage was done by rain during harvest, the average quality was reported at 89.5.

The condition of timothy was reported at 84.8 on the 1st of July and 87.5 on the 1st of August. The highest figures occurred in States west of the Mississippi, including a number lying partly in the arid region.

The average yield per acre for hay of all kinds was 1.37 tons. This was an increase of 29 per cent. over 1895; the total crop, on an area 2.1 per cent. less, being 26 per cent. greater than that of the year named.

COTTON.

Planting was somewhat delayed by wet weather in large parts of Mississippi and Texas. Elsewhere it was on the whole earlier than usual, but over an extended area germination was retarded by drought. The average condition throughout the season was as June 1, 97.2; July 1, 92.5; August 1, 80.1; September follows: Drought was the chief cause of so low a condition—the lowest September average in twenty-seven years. Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, and Tennessee were the States which suffered most severely, but no state of any importance in cotton production showed a decline of less than 18 points between the 1st of July and the 1st of September. It is, however, the general testimony of the county and State reports received in December that the crop will be considerably larger than was at first feared, chiefly because warm, dry weather at the end of the season permitted better maturing of the later crop. The top crop will be short in most states, almost a failure in some.

production is expected to exceed that of 1895, owing to the large increase (16.2 per cent.) in the acreage.

The following table, compiled from the reports of a special list of farmers whose returns the Department employs as an additional means of ascertaining the rate of yield of various crops, will be of interest as furnishing an independent comparison of corn and wheat production for the last three years:

^{*}Average from 1890 to 1895.

In the tables of production and exports of corn and wheat, the fiscal years to which the figures on exports relate are those beginning on July 1 in the years indicated. Thus, the exports set opposite the year 1895 are not for the calendar year 1895, nor for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, but for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1895, and ending June 30, 1896. In this way the exports are placed on the same line with the crop out of which they are mainly drawn. As the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1896, is incomplete, the corresponding space in the column of exports is necessarily left blank. The official figures on exports have, however, been issued for the six months ending on December 31, 1896, and it appears that the corn exported during that period amounted to 72,954,096 bushels, while the wheat, including flour reduced to its wheat equivalent at the rate of 4½ bushels to the barrel, amounted to 94,017,622 bushels. The exports of these two cereals for the corresponding months of the preceding year amounted to 38,331,098 bushels of corn and 65,029,819 bushels of It will be seen that the exports of corn for the first six months of the current fiscal year amounted to 34,623,000 bushels more than those for the same period of the fiscal year preceding. During December, 1896, they amounted to 15,039,329 bushels. It thus appears that the low price is stimulating the foreign demand, which in turn has a tendency to stiffen the price.

Corn, wheat and oats are by far the most important of our cereal crops. The production and exports of the two former have been given year by year from 1880 to 1896, inclusive. The production of oats is given in the following table for each year from 1890 to 1896, inclusive, together with the averages for those seven years and the two preceding decades. The crop of 1895 was the largest ever gathered, while that of 1896 was exceeded only by those of 1891 and 1895, the area of 1896 being larger than in any preceding year except 1895.

Our exports of oats (including oatmeal reduced at the rate of 18 pounds to the bushel), rarely exceed 1 per cent. of the total crop, the highest ratio, 2 per cent. for the fiscal year 1889-90, having followed a crop of 751,515,000 bushels in 1889, the largest recorded until 1895. The export of oatmeal during the six months ending December, 1896, exceeded that of any entire fiscal year since 1886.

NOTES ON FARM PRICES.

CORN.

The price per bushel was unprecedently low in 1889, when it fell to 28.3 cents on the average; the 1895 price fell still lower, reaching a minimum for that year of 25.3; the average for 1896 shows a further fall to 21.5 cents, nearly 4 cents below the lowest previous figure on the records of the Department. The more than usual concentration of the production in the great surplus states, where price is always lowest, the enormous total product, immediately following the heavy crop of 1895, both are added to the business depression unfortunately still continuing, and bring the value of the crop to a discouragingly low figure. An increased demand for wheat is not having the desired sustaining effect on the market for its sister cereal.

WHEAT.

Price in 1896, 72.6 cents a bushel, the highest since 1891, when it was 83.9 cents. The rise comes partially from a reduced supply, accompanied by smaller exports from Argentina, a poor crop in Europe (particularly in Russia, the most important source of supply), and a disastrous deficiency, with widespread famine and famine prices in India. It is feared that the wheat growers of the country will not profit so much by the better price as might have been wished for them; for the continued unfavorable weather conditions prevailing through the season and throughout the country, deteriorating both quality and quantity, finally left many who often have wheat to sell without sufficient for their own needs, and a large number of farmers were compelled to dispose of what surplus they had before the rise came. As usual, it is observable that the wheat price is far more dependent upon foreign supply and demand and less exclusively dependent on domestic supply than that of corn.

OTHER CEREALS.

As in the case of corn, the average price for 1895 was the lowest on the Department's records until 1896 came with a yet lower figure. The general movement of prices since 1889 is seen in the following table, which shows for each grain the ratio of each year's price to the mean of the eight years, that mean being taken as 100:

AVERAGE FARM PRICES OF CEREALS, 1889-1895, AS PERCENTAGES.

The order in which the grains are placed, that of increasing relative price for 1896, is that, for the eight years generally, of increasing divergence from the corn price, by which most of the others appear to be regulated. Rye is the only minor cereal whose price is nearer to the wheat than the corn scale; and its percentage is in six cases out of eight intermediate. All prices were high in 1890 and 1891, and low in 1895; wheat was the only exception to prevailing low prices in 1899 and 1896, and high prices in 1892; while high and low percentages for 1893 and 1894 were equally distributed.

POTATOES, IRISH.

The greatly reduced product of 1896, as compared with 1895, is attended by a slightly increased price, from 26.6 to 28.7 cents a bushel, both prices being lower, as both crops were larger, than ever before 1895.

HAY.

The average price in 1895, $8.35 a ton, was lower than any before recorded, except $8.21 in 1883, $8.17 in 1884, and $7.21 in 1878. The figure for 1896, $6.55, is 21½ per cent. lower than 1895 and 9 per cent. lower than the lowest before it. A largely increased crop shows, therefore, a diminished total value. This is the natural consequence of the generally greater production in states where the price of hay is always comparatively low, accompanied by a general falling off where higher prices prevail. It is noteworthy, however, that in states where the fall in price was most marked, such as Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan (where the percentage of decrease ranged from 35 to 40), the crop was so much larger that its total value exceeded that in 1895.

COTTON.

The average price in 1896 is 1 cent lower than in 1895, but 2 cents higher than in 1894, in each case following a reversed change in the total crop amount. Some states report the price reduced by planters crowding their cotton on the market.

TOBACCO.

The lowest price heretofore recorded, with two exceptions, was in 1894, when the average was 6.8 cents. In 1877 and 1878, however, when it fell to 5.6 and 5.8, respectively, it was even lower than this year's average of 6 cents.

WINTER GRAIN—CROP OF 1897.

The acreage sown in winter wheat shows a decided increase upon the 1895 returns, this increase being, except in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and a few states of less importance as producers, general throughout the country, and in some states quite large. The better price for this grain, particularly in contrast with the fall in corn, is assigned as a reason, though many reports speak of the higher price as having come too late for this effect.

The condition of both wheat and rye is set down as excellent in all parts of the country, almost without exception—wheat 99.5 and rye 99.8, on the average, against 81.4 and 94.9 in 1895—soil and weather conditions having been unusually favorable. Such complaints as come from scattered counties in different sections of the country name the Hessian fly and other insects, persistent dry weather or soaking rains as causes of inferior condition.

Of the value of our exports during the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, \$70,392,813 was carried in American vessels, while \$751,083,000 was carried in foreign craft, or but $8\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the value of our exports was exported in American vessels. Of the value of our imports \$117,299,074 was brought in American vessels and \$626,890,521 in foreign vessels, or 15.7 per cent. of the value of our imports was carried by foreign craft.

Twelve per cent. of the total value of our foreign trade, including both imports and exports, was carried in American vessels; the value carried by foreign vessels being $1,377,973,521, and that carried in American vessels $187,691,887.

In 1860, $66\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of our imports and exports was carried in American vessels.

The value of our foreign trade carried in American and foreign vessels during the year 1895, was $1,456,403,388; of this amount, American vessels represented $170,507,196, and foreign vessels $1,285,896,192. The value of our foreign trade transported in vessels during 1896, was 1,565,665,408, of which American vessels represented $187,691,887, and foreign vessels $1,377,973,521. The share of our foreign trade carried in American vessels in that year was 11.7 per cent. of the total, which is the lowest point reached in American shipping. In 1895 American ships carried but 3.18 per cent. of our imports from and our exports to Great Britain, but 5.44 per cent. of our trade with France, 6.56 per cent. of our trade between the United States and Brazil, and only onethird of one per cent. of our trade with Germany. In 1845 American ships handled 81 per cent. of our imports and exports. In 1855. 75.6 per cent.; in 1860, 66.5 per cent.; in 1870, 35.6 per cent.; in 1890, 12.9 per cent.; in 1895, 11.7 per cent., and in 1896, 12 per cent.

In 1895 the American Consul General at Bangkok, in a report on the foreign trade in Siam, said: "The lack of American shipping everywhere is so noticeable as to give the impression among Asiatics that we are not a commercial nation. Of over 500 merchant steamers and ships that entered the port of Bangkok in 1894 not one was American. Of over 1,700 vessels that entered the ports of Japan in the same year only 32 carried our flag."

A British foreign office report on the commerce of Rio de Janeiro for 1895, records that only 51 American ships entered that port out of a total of 1,460. At Pernambuco there were entered in 1895, 351 British ships, 120 Norwegian and 88 German, with only 5 American sailing vessels and not a single steamer under the United States flag.

Newport News as an export point is growing in importance, especially with reference to grain. From that port were exported, among other articles, 8,134,631 bushels of corn, 1,994,091 bushels of oats, 204,869 bushels of wheat and 1,235,981 barrels of flour—during the fiscal year 1896; and during the year ended December 31st, 1896, 10,376,625 bushels of corn, 3,750,054 bushels of oats and 1,611,952 barrels of flour, as against 4,866,355 bushels of corn, 104,982 bushels of oats and 1,274,045 barrels of flour during 1895.

During the calendar year, we exported 15,731,129 barrels of wheat flour, 82,748,191 bushels of wheat, 5,323,889 bushels of rye, 40,676,350 pounds of oatmeal, 30,378.552 bushels of oats, 128,518,437 bushels of corn and 16,278,780 bushels of barley, as compared with 14,187,483 barrels of wheat flour, 66,371,200 bushels of wheat, 837 bushels of rye, 35,051,681 pounds of oatmeal, 2,019,858 bushels of oats, 61,469,669 bushels of corn and 3,539,096 bushels of barley during 1895. The noticeable feature in this comparison is the enormous increase in the quantity exported of oats and of corn.

CHICAGO.

The receipts of grain and of flour in its grain equivalent, during the year 1896, aggregated 253,802,134 bushels, against 189,432,819 bushels in 1895, 187,553,469 bushels in 1894, 246,972,966 bushels in 1893 and 255,832,556 bushels in 1892; the shipments during the year aggregated 219,710,781 bushels, against 171,464,137 bushels in 1895, 148,638,822 bushels in 1894, 198,791,216 bushels in 1893 and 216,182,008 bushels in 1892. Of the quantity shipped during the year 1896, 13, 232, 878 bushels went by the great lakes. On page 3 may be seen a statement showing the quantity taken by the various railway lines, respectively.

The receipts of corn during the year aggregated 92,722,348 bushels, against 59,527,718 bushels in 1895, 64,951,815 bushels in 1894, 91,255,154 bushels in 1893 and 78,510,385 bushels in 1892.

The largest quantity brought in by any railroad was by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, and was 19,685,761 bushels. The receipts on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific R'y were 14.388,200 bushels, and on the Illinois Central R. R. 13,381,950 These great railway lines, grandly equipped, run into those vast and prolific regions known as the great corn belt, comprising the States of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, whose combined yield of corn aggregated, last year, The shipments of corn during the year 1,332,394,596 bushels. aggregated 87,713,321 bushels, against 59,964,265 bushels in 1895, 54,528,482 bushels in 1894, 78,919,781 bushels in 1893 and 66,104,-220 bushels in 1892. The receipts of oats during the year aggregated 109,725,689 bushels, which in volume are without precedent. 30,000,000 bushels of this aggregate were brought by the Chicago & North Western Railway, 17,500,000 bushels by the Illinois Central Railroad, 15,300,000 bushels by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, 12,700,000 bushels by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, and 14,940,000 bushels by the Chicago, Milwaukce & St. Paul Railway. The shipments during the year aggregated 82,119,852 bushels, against 66,839,596 bushels in 1895, 50,376,089 bushels in 1894, 67,129,119 bushels in 1893 and 67,332,322 bushels in 1892. Of the total shipments during the year 1896, 23,798,409 bushels were shipped via the great lakes. Detailed statements of receipts and shipments of grain may be seen in the statistical part of this volume. A proper and impressive comparison of the volume of the receipts of grain at Chicago with those at other principal grain markets may be made by consulting page 181 of this report. It may there be seen that the total receipts of grain and of flour in its equivalent at Chicago, aggregated, as elsewhere stated in this review, 253,802,134 bushels; the next market in order is Duluth, where were received 91,483,101 bushels; the next, Minneapolis, with 85,183,904 bushels; then follow St. Louis with 56,635,702 bushels and Milwaukee with 52,780,069 bushels. Chicago's receipts of grain during one month in 1896 aggregated about 42,500,000 bushels. The number of cars of grain inspected during the year amounted to 295,138, against 222,960 in 1895 and 204,408 in 1894; the quantity of grain inspected, received by lake and canal, was 3,944,814 bushels, against 4,294,138 bushels in 1895 and 2,270,931 bushels in 1894. The week of the largest receipts of flour and grain was that which ended on October 17th, when 12,514,405 bushels were received, 5,003,419 bushels being of oats, 4,441,800 bushels being of corn and 1,410,490 bushels being of wheat; not to make invidious comparison, but merely to indicate the immensity of the receipts of grain in this city, I would state that the receipts of grain in Detroit during the year aggregated 10,356,254 bushels, and in Toledo 20,121,622 bushels.

The week of the largest shipments of flour and of grain was that which ended on October 17th, when 8,071,373 bushels were shipped, 4,472,746 bushels being corn and 2,345,974 bushels being of oats. During the month of October there were shipped from Chicago 32,195,081 bushels of grain and of flour in its grain equivalent. The volume of grain stored in warehouses of class "A," declared by this board regular warehouses for the storage of grain, at the close of the year, aggregated 24,868,433 bushels, as against 22,920,903 bushels upon the corresponding date in 1895. On December 26th, 1896, there were stored in "regular" warehouses 13,355,308 bushels of wheat, 5,567,305 bushels of corn and 4,773,557 bushels of oats, as compared with 21,212,938 bushels of wheat, 911,612 bushels of corn and 544,268 bushels of oats upon the corresponding date in 1895.

The receipts of grass seed, including timothy, clover, hungarian, millet, etc., during the year aggregated 83,577,243 pounds, and shipments 92,212,310 pounds, as against 63,868,526 pounds and 65,567,528 pounds, respectively, during the year 1895, and 47,524,961 pounds and 66,139,009 pounds, respectively, during the year 1894. The receipts of flaxseed during the year aggregated 10,299,525 bushels, and shipments 5,734,654 bushels, as against 8,525,237 bushels and 4,726,818 bushels, respectively, during the year 1895, and 5,102,668 bushels and 2,353,757 bushels during the year 1894.

The receipts of lumber during the year aggregated 1,286,643,000 feet and the shipments 509,920,000 feet, as against 1,638,130,000 feet and 773,983,000 feet, respectively, during the year 1895, and 1,562,527,000 feet and 632,069,000 feet during the year 1894; of shingles, were received 265,205,000 feet and shipped 509,920,000 feet. Detailed statements showing receipts and shipments for a series of years, may be examined on page 96 of this volume.

The receipts of butter during the year aggregated 237,795,243 pounds, and shipments 222,004,126 pounds, as against 185,452,991 pounds and 176,846,168 pounds, respectively, during the year 1895, and 144,868,216 pounds and 155,062,053 pounds, respectively, during the year 1894. The quantity of butter exported from the United States during the calendar year shows a large increase over that exported during the year preceding. During 1896 there were exported 26,999,158 pounds valued at $3,866,720, as against 13,935,617 pounds, valued at $2,162,243, exported during 1895. The principal countries to which exported were the United Kingdom, Denmark, Germany, West Indies and South America.

The receipts of cheese during the year aggregated 72,011,661 pounds, and shipments 53,639,937 pounds, as against 59,012,937 and 52,226,151 pounds, respectively, during the year 1895, and 53,622,983 pounds and 56,062,563 pounds, respectively, during the year 1894. During the calendar year there were exported from the United States 44,444,392 pounds valued at $3,836,885, as against 40,610,242 pounds valued at $3,382,230 exported during the corresponding period in 1895. The principal countries to which this product was exported were the United Kingdom, the Dominion of Canada, the West Indies, South America, China, Japan and the Hawaiian Islands.

Our receipts of lard during the year aggregated, 67,191,567 pounds, and shipments 413,447,968 pounds, as against 53,936,324 pounds and 387,437,699 pounds, respectively, during the year immediately preceding. The volume of business transacted in this article in this city is not even approached by that transacted in any other place or market in the world. This product is no inconsiderable part of our national exports. During the calendar year ended December 31, 1896, we exported 486,723,804 pounds valued at $27,610,230, as against 501,880,718 pounds, valued at $36,247,796 exported during the year 1895. Last year the tariff policy of the chief continental countries was unfavorable to the exportation of American hog products. I have set forth on page 169 a statement of exports of bacon and ham, lard and of pork to France and Germany from America, for a series of years, as interesting in connection with foreign legislation regarding hog products. Of meats, other than barreled pork, we received 159,931,671 pounds and shipped 714,667,394 pounds, as against 172,203,523 pounds and 698,210,341 pounds, respectively, during the year These meats found an extensive market throughout the south, 103,600,000 pounds being shipped via Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway.

The receipts of dressed beef during the year aggregated 111,-746,930 pounds and the shipments 980,930,688 pounds, as against 109,351,714 pounds and 910,339,175 pounds, respectively, during the year 1895. The trade in this article is constantly increasing owing to the thorough methods for its preparation and shipment and to the unequaled transportation facilities here controlled and centralized for its rapid and economical distribution.

The receipts of live stock during the year comprised 2,600,476 cattle, 138,337 calves, 7,659,472 hogs, 3,590,655 sheep and 105,978 horses, aggregating 14,094,918 head, valued at $187,-745,655, received in 277,437 cars. The valuation of our receipts of live stock from 1866 to 1896, inclusive, amounted to $4,567,-278,166. The receipts of sheep in 1896 were the largest in any year, namely, 3,590,655 head, and the valuation of such receipts was $12,172,319; during the month of October we received 378,300 head and during the week ended September 26th last, we received 99,863 head. During the last thirty-one years Chicago's receipts of live stock aggregated 248,826,937 head, comprising 51,815,139 cattle, 1,807,759 calves, 160,438,972 hogs, 33,670,776 sheep and 1,094,091 horses. Notwithstanding extremely unfavorable surrounding commercial conditions, the business at the stock yards has been better than was anticipated at the close of the year immediately preceding. The Union Stock Yards and Transit Company is constantly adding to its already immense facilities in order to maintain this as the largest live stock market in the world. On pages 38 and 39 of this volume may be found detailed statements of receipts and shipments of live stock, by months, for which I am under obligation to Mr. J. C. Dennison, Secretary of the Stock Yards and Transit Company.

The number of vessels arrived at the port of Chicago, during the year was 8,663, representing a tonnage of 6,481,152 tons, and the number cleared, 8,773, representing a tonnage of 6,591,203 tons. There were four vessels lost during the year, viz., one tug and three schooners; two were foundered, one was capsized and one burned. The vessels built during the year in the district of Chicago represented a tonnage of 25,000 tons, valued at $1,330,000. Vessels of wood construction are fast passing away, and large sized steel craft are taking their places. These are mostly of the schooner-barge style and have an average carrying capacity of about 3,000 net tons each. In this volume I refer you to pages 133 to 140, inclusive, for valuable tabulated information concerning the lake marine, and foreign arrivals at, and clearances from, the chief ports of the world, which is interesting for purposes of comparison. Navigation on the great lakes has always been, and will always continue to be, closely and vitally identified with the growth of Chicago and of all important lake ports, and directly and indirectly, but intimately, with the prosecution of every industry throughout the country, since upon the economical and rapid transportation of the varied and enormous resources of the Mississippi Valley, depends, in an important sense, the profitable conduct of all industries, stimulating and supplying that great inland and interstate commerce, which builds factories, opens mines, constructs transportation lines, puts industry in the place of idleness and distributes the beneficent fruits of a great and varied commercial prosperity among all classes of citizens. the fiscal year 16,290 vessels passed through the canal at Saint Mary's Falls, aggregating 15,648,025 registered tonnage, and earrying 14,399,332 tons of freight, exceeding the net tonnage through the Suez Canal during the year 1895 by nearly 6,000,000 The traffic through this canal in the year 1895 was the The total amount carried to and from Lake largest in its history. Superior in 1895 exceeds that of 1894 by 14 per cent., an increase largely due to improvements in Hay Lake channel, St. Mary's river, which shorten the route 11 miles and provide safe navigation by night. The commerce passing through the Detroit River during the year amounted to about 25,850,000 tons, valued at $275,000,000, an increase of 7 per cent. over the commerce of the preceding This tounage exceeds that of the combined net tonnage of These facts, although London and Liverpool for the year 1894. partaking largely of a national character bearing upon our exports to a very considerable extent as well as directly upon our internal eommerce, are closely related to Chicago and are very significant in the consideration of the proposition to improve our harbor by the general government. Eight of our states touch the shores of the great lakes, upon whose waters are borne the products of a vast agricultural region and merchandise in great variety from the markets and manufactories of the Atlantie states. No question, no proposition, therefore, concerning the commerce on our great lakes, can be merely local or disassociated from its national character.

The population of Chicago is, according to the best estimates, about one million eight hundred thousand; its bonded indebtedness, $17,078,950; its assessed real estate valuation, $195,684,875; its valuation of personal property, $48,672,411; the amount of total city tax levied, $12,290,145; and the rate of taxation, 5.03 per cent.

The population according to the school census, as published July 1, 1896, was 1,619,226, and as officially declared by the City Council June 22, 1896, 1,750,000. The number of males in our population exceeds that of females by 50,717. The City of Chicago covers an area of 187 square miles; it has 2,570 miles of streets and 1,340 miles of alleys. The annual death rate for the twelve months ended November 30, 1896, per 1,000 of mean population, is 14.41 per cent., and was computed upon the school census of population. The total number of deaths was 23,257, of which 2,367 resulted from tuberculosis, 2,141 from pneumonia, 1,231 from heart diseases, 1,200 from diseases of the brain and 1,165 from bronchitis.

The number of hands employed in our manufacturing industries during the year, was 152,806, a considerable proportion being engaged in the iron and steel industries and at the Stock Yards. The earnings of this host of workers were smaller than were earned by the number employed during the year 1895, although that number was 12,780 less. It is gratifying to note in this connection the decrease in child labor. In manufacturing industries there were employed last year 5,830 children, as against 6,757 during 1895.

The retail trade generally has been unsatisfactory. This is ascribed by the accomplished City Statistician, Mr. Eugene Seeger, to the universal trade depression, to an under-consumption on the part of wage-earners and to an increased number of those who have drifted into huckstering pursuits. Another cause is the concentration of the retail trade, in all its various branches, in a few mammoth department stores, six of which employ not less than 15,000 hands.

From the report of the Fire Marshal there are now in use 1,227 fire alarm boxes, 921 public and 395 private police boxes, making in all 2,543 alarm stations. The total length of overhead wires is 2,630.7 miles. The underground system has been increased during the year by the addition of 1,692 feet of steel pipe and 30,574 feet of cable of various sizes. The total number of feet of cable in this system is 254,888 and of wire 4,540,782. Adding to this last item the length of wire on poles, it gives a total of 3,490 miles of wire. The apparatus of the department includes 4 fire-boats, 86 steam fire engines, 4 hand engines, 27 chemical engines, 42 hose wagons, 36 hose carriages, 33 hook-and-ladder trucks, 53 chemical extinguishers, 68 portable pumps, 2 water towers and 175,812 feet of hose. There are now in the service 477 horses. The amount expended by the department during the year was $1,502,942.66, equal to 86 cents per capita of a population of 1,750,000.

The exceptional efficiency of this department is universally admitted, and the value of its services to this city is incalculable.

There are 3,395 persons connected with the Department of Police, 2,652 of them being uniformed officers. The force has one Superintendent, one Assistant Superintendent, one Secretary, fifteen Captains, fifty-seven Lieutenants, two-hundred Sergeants and sixty Detectives; it has forty-one Police Stations, forty Patrol Wagons and seven Ambulance Wagons.

Chief Badenoeh, a member of this board, has made a splendid record, discharging his delicate and responsible duties with signal ability. Efficiency with courtesy mark the conduct of the department, and Chicago is justly proud of her police force. A finer body of men can nowhere be found. Without unnecessary display of power or authority the force has repeatedly shown itself grandly equal to the gravest emergencies.

An ambitious and successful commercial community must of necessity be one of more than ordinary intelligence. The ability to successfully compete in the markets of the world presupposes, especially in this age, an unusual intellectual equipment. That this city has such an equipment is further proved by the facts which I shall set forth concerning our public libraries and the extent of our book, periodical and journalistic business.

THE PRESS OF CHICAGO—NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS.

As nearly as can be estimated, 600,000,000 copies of daily, weekly, monthly and other publications were issued from the presses of Chicago in 1896. No books or pamphlets are included in this list, as these figures relate exclusively to newspapers and periodical literature, and chiefly to second-class postal matter, which is mailable at one (1) cent per pound. There are 620 publications entered at the Chicago Postoffice which are mailable at the cent per pound rate, and 142 periodicals issued for trade or advertising purposes that are not of general circulation and are therefore placed in the third-class list.

The newspapers and periodicals printed in Chicago may be classified as follows:

Newspapers, daily
Newspapers, weekly	287
Newspapers, semi-weekly
Newspapers, bi weekly
Periodicals, semi-monthly
Periodicals, monthly	319
Periodicals, quarterly
Total publications

In this list no account is taken of the 3,000 "patent insides" printed wholly or in part in this city for country editors and entered for mailing at outside post offices.

The Chicago Post Office handles an average of sixty (60) tons of newspapers and periodicals daily, and the total circulation of such matter is about 50,000,000 copies per month. Not all of these are handled at the post office, however, as the city carriers and newspaper agents, the railroad news companies, express companies and newspaper train service each do their share of the distribution of this enormous mass of printed matter, which amounts to about 150,000,000 pounds per year.

Of the 38 dailies printed in Chicago 11 are in foreign laguages. There are 79 religious publications, of which 22 are printed in the various mother tongues of our foreign-born citizens. The trade publications and the labor papers are also printed in various languages. Of trade papers there are 39, and of labor papers 7; to medicine and surgery, 21 publications are devoted; law and music each have 5 papers; there are 4 papers devoted to cycling, 3 to sport, 4 to the drama and 14 occupy the literary field. The colored folks have 4 journals devoted to their religious and educational interests, while the various fraternal societies and educational institutions issue 50 publications.

LIBRARIES OF CHICAGO.

Prior to the fire of 1871 this city had no public library. The Chicago Historical Society, the Law Institute and the Academy of Sciences were purely reference institutions, and though valuable in an educational and technical way fell far short of filling the field that the great libraries of Chicago now so amply occupy. Each of these institutions was seriously crippled by the great fire. The old Metropolitan block contained nearly 20,000 volumes which were owned by the Chicago Library Association, but these were accessible only to members and the fees were $5.00 per year. These books were all burned.

It will be recalled that the Anglo-American Society in London sent to Chicago some 5,000 books, and the English government added a number of valuable documents as the nucleus for a great public library in this city, it being supposed that such an institution had been lost in the general wreck. Hon. Joseph Medill called a meeting of our prominent citizens and apprised them of the intended gift, and the result was a bill authorizing the establishment of the Chicago Public Library, which passed the Legislature, and was signed by the Governor March 7, 1872. consignment of books from England was received August 31, 1872, and was placed on a few shelves in a room in the old City Hall, situated at the corner of LaSalle and Adams streets. eral continental nations contributed books and documents, and so a quarter of a century ago was founded the great institution which, within the coming year will occupy a magnificent structure constructed especially for its use, and which will rank with the great library buildings of the world.

THE CHICAGO PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Chicago Public Library is the second largest institution of its kind in America, having, in round numbers, 220,000 volumes, covering almost the entire field of human thought and research. Though ranking second as to number of books the Chicago Public Library easily leads all others in this country in circulation. there are nearly forty important libraries in Chicago, available for consultation and reference, the fact that the circulation of books and periodicals from the public library for the library year ending June 1, 1896, aggregated over 2,542,000 tells a story that needs no elaboration in this report. A summary of circulation in all departments for the calendar year just closed shows a considerable increase over even these surprisingly large figures. Taking into account the fact that Chicago publishers print and sell a greater number of books than issue from the presses of any other city in America, and that this city is a large buyer of books published elsewhere, we are warranted in the conclusion not only that Chicago is a literary center but that its citizens are eager for studious research along the path of literature.

Less than 12,000 books were added to our public library during 1896, as all available shelf space has long since been exhausted and purchases have been confined to current literature needed to keep the collection up to date.

Mr. Frederick S. Hild, Librarian, reports that the library has 31 delivery stations and that from these 1,200,000 volumes—about half the books drawn in 1896 for home reading—were issued. Several new sub-stations will be opened after the library is finally settled in its new building. There are six branch reading rooms in which 300,000 readers consulted books in 1896, while over 750,000 persons availed themselves of the reference department of the main library, and the numbers in the reading rooms were often limited by lack of seating capacity. The salary list was $79,981.29 and the total maintenance account $138,559.20 for the library year. The latest report shows available resources of $1,086,246.02, of which nearly $949,000 belonged to the new building fund. The salary list, which was $37,878.36 in 1888, has more than doubled in eight years and the fact is an index of the steady growth of and the demands made upon the library.

The best obtainable information as to book circulation in other cities shows that New York from all its public libraries circulated but 1,500,000 books last year and received but $65,000 from the city. The Boston Public Library received $175,000 and circulated about 850,000 volumes in 1895—figures for 1896 not yet being obtainable. St. Louis, in 1895, spent $60,000 in a circulation of 331,000; Milwaukee, $36,000 on 284,000 and Cleveland $60,000 on 595,000 volumes.

THE NEWBERRY LIBRARY.

The Newberry Library was founded in 1887 under the provisions of the will of the late Walter Newberry, and on July 1st of that year, the bequest was valued at $2,149,201, largely in realty. The Newberry is a reference library containing almost 145,000 volumes. Medicine, Music, Religion, Americana and Bibliography are its particular fields; neither juvenile works nor fiction are found in the collection. A magnificent new granite structure in Walton Place, fronting Washington Square, in the North Division is owned by the Library, and is a model library building. The building and grounds cost $750,000 and it is supposed will meet all requirements for at least twenty years, but the land fronting north will be built upon whenever more room is required. The "Newberry" stands alone among Chicago libraries in the matter of binderies, it having a complete plant under its own roof. The great Probasco collection was recently placed on exhibition in the museum and those interested in the art of bookmaking from its beginning will find this unrivalled exhibit extremely attractive and instructive. Mr. John Vance Cheney, late of San Francisco, is the librarian at the "Newberry" and the demands upon the institution necessitate fifty employes.

THE CHICAGO HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The treasures of the Chicago Historical Society are now safely stored in a perfectly fire-proof structure, an edifice of granite, glass and steel, in which even the tables, desks and furniture are of iron. This elegant building cost $175,000, and after two disastrous fires which caused really irreparable losses the latest collection is now on view in the new home of the society which was dedicated and formally opened to the public on December 15, 1896.

The great fire of 1871 and another conflagration in 1874 swept away two large collections, among which were priceless manuscripts, impossible to replace. Nevertheless the shelves are now lined with 20,000 volumes and nearly 40,000 pamphlets and to these are added valuable portraits, relics and curios. The society was organized in 1856, and has ever been active in in the way of collecting such material as would be most highly prized in such an institution, and more especially by Chicago and the west.

THE JOHN CRERAR LIBRARY.

By the will of the late John Crerar of Chicago, who died October 18th, 1889, the residue of his estate, after the payment of numerous bequests both private and public, was given for the creation and endowment of a free public library to be called "The John Crerar Library", and to be located in the City of Chicago. In 1891 the validity of the will was attacked in the courts, but was sustained by a decision of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois rendered June 19, 1893. The administration of the estate in the Probate Court was closed July 13, 1894. The library was incorporated under the laws of Illinois, Oct. 12, 1894, and was duly organized January 12, 1895.

Having carefully considered the library facilities and needs of the city, the directors decided unanimously to establish a reference library of scientific literature. This decision has been confirmed by the adoption of a scheme for the division of the field recommended, by representatives of the three public libraries of the city. The special field of the John Crerar Library will be accordingly, that of the natural, physical, and social sciences, and their applications.

The total endowment is estimated to be over $2,500,000, and the income should be sufficient ultimately to allow the making of a great collection within the proposed limits. The directors having decided not to encroach upon the endowment, for the purchase of land or the creation of a permanent building, accommodations have been secured on the sixth floor of the Marshall Field Building, 87 Wabash Ave., which are to be opened to the public as soon as a sufficient number of books have been placed on the shelves and catalogued. A full staff has been appointed, and the work of selecting, purchasing and cataloguing the books is being prosecuted as rapidly as possible. The library will probably contain 35,000 volumes before the close of the year and will present a selection of possibly 20,000 on the opening date.

OTHER LIBRARIES AND INSTITUTIONS.

The University of Chicago has an ample book fund and is using it freely. Mrs. Zella A. Dixon is the librarian in charge of this collection, which is rich in all that pertains to educational work. A world of pamphlets and treatises is found in this library and these with bound books foot up a total of over 485,000 volumes, of which 305,000 are bound copies. It is the aim of the management to make this the greatest university library on the globe and for so young an institution great strides in this direction have been achieved. This is the second largest college library in America, Harvard being the first.

The Chicago Law Institute Library is one of the most valuable in its special field. Nearly 3,200 volumes, covering the legal lore of the ages, are accessible to members, and so economically are the affairs of the institute administered, that less than $12,000 per year is expended in its support. The Chicago Law Institute is a pioneer, having been organized in 1857. In the great fire of 1871 it lost its valuable collection.

One of the best evidences that not only does Chicago but the whole country appreciate the value of such training as the Armour Institute of Technology provides, is the fact that practically all the classes in this institute are full. Between 300 and 400 applications for admission to some of the classes have been necessarily refused during the year. Students are here from twenty states, and the South especially, is well represented. The enrollment in 1893 4, first year, was 1,050 and about 1,500 applications were denied. For 1896-7 the enrollment is about 1,200. In the scientific academy about one-third are young ladies. In the associated departments nearly all are girls and young ladies.

The principle of self-dependence is emphasized in this institution. While the terms are reasonable, there are no free courses. If a young man cannot pay cash, his note, drawn at from one year to five years, and, indeed, for a longer time if needed, is frequently accepted in payment of tuition. The institution is conducted upon business principles.

The library of the Armour Institute, consisting of nearly 13,000 volumes, embraces just such a collection as one would anticipate finding in an educational institution of such scope and reputation. Scientific works, books on mechanical engineering and educational volumes predominate. The library has been well selected and covers pretty fully the field designated by the institute. Students are permitted to withdraw books for home reading.

In an elegantly appointed building in Lincoln Park the Chicago Academy of Sciences has recently found a permanent home. Some 5,000 volumes, many of surpassing interest, and thousands of specimens, are features of this early-day society. The first collection was lost in the fire of 1871, but an energetic management soon began the work of reconstruction, and its efforts have been continuous and successful.

The Field Columbian Museum, with its wealth of curies, specimens, old manuscripts and books, has already acquired international fame. The world is being ransacked for treasures for this great enterprise, and neither money, research nor travel are spared to make this the foremost institution of its kind on the globe. Though but three years old, the Field Museum ranks in many respects with any similar institution on this continent.

The Lewis Institute is a splendidly equipped educational institution and is an enduring monument to the broad philanthropy of Mr. Allen A. Lewis, a former Chicagoan, who died in New York in 1887. This great edifice is located in the heart of the West Side, at Madison and Robey streets. It was opened September 21st, 1896, at an expense of nearly $500,000. Its assets are $1,600,000, nearly $1,000,000 of which are in revenue-producing investments. This school is designed to furnish a practical education at a nominal cost, and occupies a field specially inviting to the poor but studious and ambitious young man. There are now 3,000 volumes on its shelves, and books are coming in rapidly.

In the reference libraries of the public schools there are more than 200,000 bound volumes. The Art Institute has a valuable collection of 1,600 volumes. Ten Catholic educational institutions report 47,000 volumes in their libraries.

BOOK TRADE.

The book trade in this city is an extensive one. One firm printed about 2,000,000 bound books in 1896 and nearly 3,000,000 paper volumes. Until recent years, few juvenile books were printed in Chicago. Most of the books for the young used in this country were printed in Germany. Now, however, this city is doing a large business in this class of publications. issued 800,000 "juveniles" in 1895 and 1,200,000 in 1896. concern has about 500 employes on its pay rolls. There are at least two large firms in the field, each with a separate and complete series of school books embracing the best thought of advanced educators. Three or four other houses also print school books, according to the demand. Chicago leads in map engraving and printing, and has the largest house in this line of trade in the This firm printed 30,000 maps, including railroad folders, in one year, though its output for 1896 fell below that figure. During several years Chicago furnished railroad maps to two of the principal railroads in England. Chicago has the largest book distributing house in America. This firm reports about the average business during 1896 in their book department, and that 30 new titles, bearing their imprint as publishers, were issued during The fact that good reading is in constantly increasing demand in the west is proven by the library associations that are being founded, even in small villages, and also by the statistics of the trade showing that the better class of books in a literary sense are being more widely and generally circulated.

A careful canvas of the leading printing houses, lithographers and binders, shows an increase of over 1,400 names on the pay-rolls as compared with 1895. About 35,000 bound books, ranging from large sized encyclopedias, dictionaries and atlases down to little 12-mos., school books and "juveniles," was the daily average of Chicago publishers in 1896. Add to these, paper covered series published, and the production for the year represents in value between $23,000,000 and $24,000,000 at jobbers prices. This valuation is strikingly significant and indicates that our leading publishers have invaded every market in the country, and that Chicago bookmen are found wherever a demand for books can be created. The publication of the works of popular authors on the subscription plan and sales of books on the installment system, if not an original Chicago idea as claimed, is being prosecuted here very successfully. More subscription books are printed here than in any other city in the world. It is noteworthy, in this connection, that the displacement of skilled labor in printing offices by the introduction of laborsaving machinery—notably the Linotype machine for type setting -has resulted in the establishment of several small printing plants by those thus thrown out of employment. Omitting many small shops, that employ from two to four persons, we find that the printing trades gave employment during the year to 10,750 persons, as against 9,386 in 1895. Of this total, 2,751 were women, and 100 boys and girls under the age of 16. the figures here given, no account is taken of those employed by the various Chicago dailies, which in their various departments afford employment to thousands of high class and well paid workers.

The foregoing facts, together with the corresponding ones of previous years, presenting a phase of Chicago's life often overlooked, account in large measure for the development and greatness of Chicago, and for that resourcefulness which, more than once in her history, has surprised the world.

The Chicago Public Library, the John Crerar Library and the Newberry Library have adopted a joint system of classification, which will not only unify them and add greatly to the convenience of the general reading public, but will also greatly increase their respective special efficiencies and book-purchasing capacities by the prevention of unnecessary covering of the same ground.

The following is the general classification:

Public Library—All wholesomely entertaining and generally instructive books, especially those which are desired by the citizens for general home use. Also, collections of newspapers, patents, government documents, books for the blind and works on architecture and the decorative arts.

Newberry Library—Literature, language, history, sociology, philosophy, religion, fine arts in part, medicine.

John Crerar Library—Philosophy, physical and natural sciences, useful arts, fine arts in part, sociology. Medicine is omitted from the scope of the John Crerar Library and included in the Newberry Library because of the value of the collection already made by the Newberry. The demand for literature on the subject of sociology is so great that it is included in the fields of both reference libraries.

It is expected that a general catalogue of all three libraries, and also of the Art Institute and Chicago University libraries, in accordance with the new classifications, will be published during the present year. By means of the union catalogue, the Chicago citizen will be able to learn where he can at once find any book contained in the great libraries of the city.

WHEAT.

The year opened with a stock of about 21,200,000 bushels of wheat in store as against 26,000,000 upon the corresponding date in 1895, and a visible supply in the United States (excepting California) and Canada of 69,842,000 bushels, as against 87,886,000 bushels in 1895. The opening price was 57 cents per bushel for No. 2 spring, which was about 4 cents per bushel higher than upon the corresponding date of 1895. From the first of the month of January, prices grew steadily stronger, closing upon the 31st at 63½ to 64 cents per bushel. The improvement continued through February with the same steadiness, and sales were made on the latter days of the month at from 66 to 67 cents per bushel. the month of March, however, the market became weak and prices declined to 61 cents per bushel on the 20th, and on the 31st, sales were made at from 62½ to 63 cents per bushel. During April the market was dull and unsettled as a whole, but about the 10th, when the government report of condition of winter wheat was given at 77.4 per cent. against 81.4 per cent. on the previous April, The strength thus prices improved from 3 to 4 cents per bushel. imparted was soon dissipated and a period of gloom soon followed, under the influence of which prices receded to 613 cents per bushel on the 30th. The weakness continued throughout the month of May and became pronounced under the influence of a general liquidation of May contracts. Sales were made on the 29th of the month at 58 cents per bushel. Speculation was at this period at a very low ebb, and in its absence the market drifted in an utterly aimless and hopeless manner.

Throughout the month of June the market continued in the same listless condition, and prices dropped down to 54 cents for No. 2 spring on the 29th of that month. No material change occurred until the latter part of July, when a steady advance was reached of about 4 cents per bushel; this was maintained, however, but a short time, and on the 15th of August sales were made at 54 to $54\frac{1}{4}$ cents. A trifling reaction came during the latter portion of the month, and sales on the 31st were made at 56½ cents. dullness and weakness of the summer market were due principally to depressed financial conditions which prevailed throughout the states, causing the retirement of capital from many investments and business enterprises, and its accumulation in safety deposit But September brought news of a considerable shortage in the supplies of the United States as well as of other parts of the The market responded quickly to the effect of these reports, and from the first of the month prices strongly advanced. on the 1st of October were made at $69\frac{1}{2}$ cents per bushel, and on the 19th at 77 cents. Winter wheat, throughout the year, brought a higher price than Spring wheat.

The following is a statement of the extreme prices each year for thirty-two years, indicating the month in which such prices obtained:

CORN.

The crop of corn raised in 1896 was the largest ever grown in this country, aggregating 2,283,875,165 bushels produced on 81,027,156 acres; its farm valuation, estimated by the United States Agricultural Department, was $53,000,000 less than that of the crop of 1895, though the crop that year was 132,000,000 bushels less than the crop of 1896. On page 182 may be seen a statement of this crop by states, and the totals of nine years preceding. Receipts in this market aggregated 92,722,348 bushels, of which 19,685,761 bushels came over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, 14,388,200 bushels over the Chicago, Rock Island

& Pacific Railway and 13,381,950 bushels over the Illinois Central Shipments aggregated 87,713,321 bushels, of which 74,379,206 bushels went by lake. The effect of such a stupendous movement could not be otherwise than depressing The lowest price of the year was touched on the upon prices. 11th of September, viz: 19½ cents per bushel. At the beginning of the year there were 1,105,103 bushels in store in Chicago, and at its close 5,567,305 bushels. The quantity in the "visible supply" at the beginning of the year was 5,838,000 bushels and at its close 18,893,000 bushels, as against 10,672,000 bushels and 5,817,000 bushels, respectively, in 1895. The reserves, owing to a crop of unprecedented magnitude harvested the year before, were immense, and dragged a market already overloaded, down to a most discouraging level, sales of the low grades hardly paying freight charges.

There was throughout the year an absence of animation in the speculative market, and at times heavy receipts almost overwhelmed even so large a market as this. So steady was the volume of receipts and so apparently inexhaustible the supply of corn, that all thought of holding for an improvement in price was out of the question, and no opportunity was neglected to effect sales. Low prices brought about a large export demand, and heavy shipments were made from Galveston and New Orleans as well as from Atlantic ports. During the month of January, prices ranged from $25\frac{1}{2}$ to $28\frac{1}{4}$ cents per bushel for No. 2 grade. The market during February was a steady one, the fluctuations in price not exceeding one cent per bushel. In March, the market was about the same, showing no confidence in prices, nor on the other hand disclosing any evidence of materially lower values. The market was cumbersome and too unwieldy for speculation. Prices were slightly better in April, No. 2 reaching to 301 cents about the middle of the month. During May, the market declined to, from $27\frac{1}{2}$ to 29 cents per bushel, and dismissed many hopes that the opening of navigation would be followed by an increase in demand. June and July brought added weakness, and on the 30th of the latter month sales were made at $24\frac{1}{4}$ cents per bushel. August and September brought prostration to the market, and prices of No. 2 corn slipped from about 24 cents per bushel down to $19\frac{1}{2}$ cents.

October brought a reaction, and the well-nigh discouraged farmers were somewhat revived. Prices ranged during the month from $22\frac{5}{8}$ to $26\frac{1}{2}$ cents per bushel. November trade was on the basis of about 24 cents and tended to lower prices, which were realized in the month of December. The closing prices of the year were from $22\frac{3}{4}$ to $23\frac{1}{4}$ cents per bushel.

The following table shows the extreme prices in each year for thirty-two years, indicating the month in which such prices were obtained:

OATS.

The market for oats like that for corn was overstocked by an immense crop and prices dragged and sagged, little influenced by the strength which at times visited the wheat market. The inferior quality of the oats imparted an additional depression to values and there was hardly an element of strength upon which to predicate At times a heavy short interest was taken any advance in prices. advantage of, and stimulated a speculative demand which advanced prices to a limited degree, but this demand was of brief duration and when subsided, dullness resumed its sway. Our receipts for the year aggregated the enormous quantity of 109,725,689 bushels and our shipments 82,119,852 bushels; 30,041,500 bushels arrived on the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, 17,475,050 bushels on the Illinois Central Railroad, 15,306,400 bushels on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, 12,696,069 bushels on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and 14,941,500 bushels on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. complete statement of receipts may be seen in the statistical part of this volume. The quantity in store at the beginning of the year was 533,389 bushels and at its close, 4,773,557 In the "visible supply" on January 4th, there were 6,537,000 bushels, and on December 26th, 13,476,000 bushels, as against 8,826,000 bushels and 6,468,000 bushels, upon the corresponding dates in 1895.

Prices during January ranged from 17 to 19½ cents for No. 2 During February there was a slight improvement, but no special change in the market situation; indeed, no material variation in prices took place until the month of June, when there was an additional weakness in this market and sales were made on the last day of the month at $15\frac{1}{4}$ cents per bushel. The decline was caused by the Government report of favorable conditions indicating a crop approaching 800,000,000 bushels. Prices in July recovered somewhat as it was discovered that much of the crop was so severely damaged that the yield of merchantable and marketable oats would not prove to be over 600,000,000 bushels. Sales on the closing day of this month were made at about 18 cents per bushel. A vigorous "bear" movement now appeared which resulted in forcing prices down to $15\frac{7}{8}$ cents on the last day The pressure of this movement aided by weakness in corn, continued, until sales were made on the 5th of September at $14\frac{3}{4}$ cents, the lowest price of the year. From this time the market had more character, and prices during October ranged from 171/4 to $19\frac{3}{8}$ cents per bushel. During the month of November the market was strong and the advance was fairly held. Liquidation in December, caused a slight falling off in prices, and the market on the last day of the year was from $16\frac{3}{4}$ to 17 cents per bushel.

prominent feature of the trade was an extensive business in clipping the lower grades and reselling them on the market.

BARLEY.

The receipts of barley aggregated 17,496,381 bushels, and shipments 9,767,708 bushels, as against 14,194,881 bushels and 9,322,244 bushels, respectively, during 1895. The crop as given by the United States Agricultural Department was 69,695,223 bushels. The quality of the crop was very poor and a considerable quantity was exported for stock feeding to the British Isles, Holland and South Africa. In ordinary years under such circumstances, our local feed dealers would use the lower grades of barley for mixing with oats and corn, but last year the prices of these cereals were so low that they could not have been sold any lower or the profits in selling them increased by mixing the inferior grades of barley with them. Hence the poorer qualities of barley found an outlet in foreign markets. On account of low prices of choice barley in 1895, maltsters were liberally stocked both with barley and malt, and consequently were not urgently in the market at any time; the entire situation therefore was such that the sellers were not in control of the market and prices were to a very large extent determined by depressing influences. From Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Iowa came the best quality. grade of No. 2 has become obsolete, the best quality not more than meeting the requirements of No. 3 grade. So fine is the discrimination of the trade in the selection of this grain, with regard to color, weight and soundness, that there is a wide range of prices with respect to a single grade. For instance, No. 3 barley ranged from 12 to 17 cents per bushel without any change in general market conditions. At the beginning of the year, No. 3 sold at from 23 to 36 cents per bushel.

There was but little variation from this quotation until June when very little was done and prices ranged from 23 to 33 cents per bushel. In July and August there was no quotable market. A little trade timidly crept in during September at from 20 to 35 cents per bushel for the grade of No. 3. October trade was much the same. November and December brought a slight improvement and on the last day of the year sales were made from $23\frac{1}{2}$ to 35 cents for No. 3.

RYE.

The receipts of rye during the year aggregated 2,530,336 bushels, and shipments 1,374,509 bushels, as against 1,657,216 bushels and 1,168,252 bushels, respectively, during the year 1895. The visible supply of this grain on the 4th of January aggregated 1,557,000 bushels and on the 26th of December 2,996,000 bushels, as against 464,000 and 1,553,000 bushels on the corresponding dates in 1895. The quantity in store on the 4th of January was 236,890 bushels and on the 26th of December 1,076,720 bushels, as against 148,232 bushels and 228,372 bushels on the corresponding dates in 1895. The receipts during October aggregated about 650,000 bushels, and were larger than those of any other month. The bulk of the receipts arrived over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. Prices ruled very low, influenced in part by low prices for other grains and in part by an absence of the usual distilling demand. The quantity exported during the calendar year aggregated 5,323,889 bushels. The range of prices for No. 2 rye during the month of January was from 32½ to 40 cents per No marked change occurred in February, but during March the market declined 4½ cents per bushel, and in April, though there was not much change in prices, there was less confidence in the market than at any previous time of the year. the more evident during the May market when prices of No. 2 Prices declined still more in June and in declined to 33 cents. July; during these months the range was from 28½ to 34 cents per bushel, the higher prices lasting but a short time early in June. No material change took place in August. During the latter part of September an unexpected speculative demand arose and prices rather suddenly advanced to 36 cents. This new strength remained in the market, steadily improving prices, until 43½ cents was reached the last of November. A reaction came in December, the anticipations upon which the advance was based proving not to have been well founded. The rye market is one that is apt to exhibit some eccentricities and has shown that it is strongly individual in its character. Some years it does not vary much in price from the price of wheat, both being used for bread making and each containing about the same number of pounds to the bushel, but last year there was a wide difference between the price of rye and the price of wheat.

Prices during the year ranged from 28 to $42\frac{1}{2}$ cents per bushel. The following is a statement of prices for the year, by months, of No. 2 rye:

HAY.

The hay market was an unusually favorable one in all respects. The trade was large in volume, profitable to both the shipper and receiver, and free from those features which during many years made it, at times, exceedingly unsatisfactory. There was no congestion in the market, neither an accumulation of inferior grades. During the first six months of the year there was a brisk eastern demand at satisfactory prices to the western grower. The demand was so continuous and urgent that as soon as the new crop was cut, and even before it was sufficiently cured to pack safely, liberal shipments were made to this market in order to take advantage of the then exceptionally high prices. It is, however, under any circumstances, a mistake for the western hay producer to bale new timothy hay immediately after cutting, as hay baled under such circumstances will inevitably get out of condition. Arrivals from the new crop of prairie hay were, however, in splendid condition, and choice grades were sold at fairly good prices from July until December. In December, there was not only a diminution in the demand, but also a deterioration in the quality and condition of the hav shipped from the northwest. Wet weather in northwestern Iowa and southern Minnesota was the cause of this deterioration. The hay trade for the year 1896, as a whole, was profitable and did not during any part of the year cause complaint.

The receipts were very large and while prices of corn, oats, barley and seeds were lower than ever before, hay sold at fair prices, netting per acre more than any of the cereals except wheat. Much better results could have been obtained if better care had been taken of the crop. Millions of dollars worth of hay were destroyed by careless handling. It is estimated that the value of the hay sold in Chicago in 1896 was $2,750,000, upon the basis of 325,000 tons, sold at an average price of $8.50 per ton. There is every indication that the hay trade of Chicago is destined to become still larger. Receipts of hay in Chicago were very nearly equal to those of New York and will largely exceed them in another year. It is more than probable that the western farmer will in the future raise more hay and less corn, oats and barley. The cultivation of hay does not impoverish land as in the case of grain.

Great changes have taken place in respect to marketing hay during the last twenty or twenty-five years. Twenty-five years ago farmers supplied consumers direct with loose hay cut from six to fifteen miles from the city. A limited quantity of hay in bales reached us from railroad stations twenty to seventy-five miles distant. Now, a load of loose hay is seldom seen, and we receive our hay from the farthest stations in Nebraska and Oklahoma, six hundred miles away. Shippers can not be too greatly impressed with the importance of having each car load of a uniform quality and packed in the most approved form.

The crop of hay aggregated 59,282,158 tons, valued at $388,145,614, and was grown on 43,083,134 acres. The largest hay producing states are Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota, Vermont, California, Oregon, Colorado, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin.

FLOUR.

The receipts of flour during the year aggregated 2,531,995 barrels, as against 3,005,400 barrels in 1895. The shipments aggregated 2,854,832 barrels, as against 2,532,000 barrels in 1895. The number of barrels of flour manufactured in this city during the year was 928,283. The quantity of flour exported during the calendar year aggregated 15,731,129 barrels, as against 14,187,483 barrels in 1895. The number of barrels of flour exported during the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, was 14,620,864, valued at $52,025,217, as against 15,268,892 barrels, valued at $51,651,928, exported during the preceding fiscal year. The closing prices for the years 1894 to 1896, inclusive, are given in the following statement:

Winter patents	$\begin{array}{cccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccccc$	\$3 30@3 50 2 90@3 25 2 40@2 75 3 10@3 15 1 20@1 80	\$2 50@2 80 2 25@2 60 2 40@2 80 3 20@3 60 1 65@1 80

The lowest price of the year obtained during the spring, when "patents" sold at $3.15 per barrel, and the highest in December, when sales were made at $4.75 per barrel. The volume of the demand was, on the whole, of a uniform character throughout the year, there being no disposition to purchase in excess of pressing wants, though during the month of June there was more liberal buying upon the part of some large dealers, as prices were so low and the season so far advanced that there was hardly any risk in carrying stocks in excess of present wants. The spring wheat mills did a good business in consequence of short supplies of winter wheat and the small output of winter wheat mills. Winter wheat flour sold at from 25 to 50 cents per barrel above the price of spring wheat brands.

In the month of August, as it became evident that the winter wheat crop was seriously damaged, prices of winter wheat flour advanced and were firmly maintained. During the early winter, quite a determined demand set in, brought about by a strong and high wheat market and an increased inquiry for flour from foreign Throughout the spring wheat regions the flouring mills countries. were very active, even until the close of the year. foreign demand had the effect of advancing rates of ocean freights. but, notwithstanding the advance, large quantities of flour were taken for shipment. Poor prospects of the wheat crop in India, Argentina and Australia had the effect of producing more or less anxiety in foreign markets lest they should not be sufficiently and promptly supplied with flour, and at times there was quite an accumulation of buying orders, which was an experience the trade had not known for months.

At trade centers, both in the United Kingdom and on the continent, there were small supplies compared with those of preceding years, and under generally strengthening conditions, winter wheat "patents" advanced to $4.60 and $4.75 per barrel, and spring wheat brands to $4.30 and $4.50 per barrel. Some bakers' grades sold as high as $3.50 per barrel. Meanwhile there was quite a demand for low grades and qualities adapted for bakers' use.

The growth of the flour trade of the United States with foreign countries may be understood from the following table, showing exports each year from 1870 to 1896:

SEEDS.

The market for timothy was dull and in striking contrast with that of the preceding year. Stocks carried over from 1895 were more than ample for requirements, and the opening prices were about $2.00 per cental lower than the extreme prices of that crop. Arrivals were unexpectedly heavy and were accounted for by the fact, that owing to high prices, which for the most part ruled during the preceding season, farmers had saved every available This revelation produced its natural result, and a sharp The usual spring demand did not appear, and in decline ensued. its absence values further declined to about $3.00 in the month of March, though some fancy samples sold at $3.50. At this point the trade became convinced that old stocks were practically exhausted, and confidence was partially restored. A comparatively brisk inquiry advanced prices to $3.25; this price, however, was held but during a brief period, and $3.15 was soon thereafter the extreme market price. Early in the autumn, under the combined influence of liberal receipts and unsettled financial conditions, speculation withdrew from the market, and the demand was restricted to actual wants. Sales for January delivery were made at $2.60 per hundred. The quality of the crop was disappointing, owing to copious rains during harvest. In fact, so serious was the interruption that the supply was greatly reduced. portion of choice grades of seed was less than usual.

During seeding time there was a large demand, caused by exceptionally favorable conditions. Prices for the year ranged from $1.50 to $4.00, covering poor to choice seed. Receipts for the year aggregated 61,772,523 pounds and shipments 63,368,857 pounds, as against 51,608,549 pounds and 50,853,572 pounds respectively in 1895. On page 87 may be found a statement showing receipts and shipments by railway lines and by months. September was the month of largest shipments and August of largest receipts. There was but a limited demand for export.

The receipts for clover seed aggregated 11,315,209 pounds and shipments 11,717,500 pounds, as against 5,688,860 pounds and 7,460,214 pounds respectively in 1895. The total receipts of other grass seeds for the year aggregated 10,489,511 pounds and shipments 19,125,953 pounds, as against 6,571,117 pounds and 7,253,742 pounds, respectively, in 1895. The total receipts of all grass seeds during the year aggregated 83,577,243 pounds and shipments 94,212,310 pounds, as against 63,868,526 pounds and 65,567,528 pounds, respectively, in 1895. The market for clover seed was but moderately active. The year opened with a good stock on hand and the contract grade sold at $7.25 per 100 lbs. The European yield was large, and instead of needing to import, Europe had a surplus. These conditions produced weakness in our market, which prevailed until the revival of trade in the spring, when stocks became greatly diminished and prices advanced, the price of choice clover seed reaching $8.25 per 100 lbs. It remained at this figure, however, but a short time. A feature of the clover seed market was the importation of several thousand bags of seed from Europe. The closing quotations for the year were from $2.00 to $8.50, covering poor to choice grades. The trade in Hungarian and millet seed was only fair, Hungarian ranging from 50 to 60 cents per 100 lbs., and millet from 40 to 60 cents. Exports of timothy seed for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, aggregated 11,894,536 pounds, valued at $518,755, as against 4,939,237 pounds, valued at $277,160, exported during the preceding year; of the quantity exported during 1896, 2,309,416 pounds were shipped to the United Kingdom, 1,486,267 pounds to Germany, and 7,368,118 pounds to the Dominion of Canada.

FLAXSEED.

The receipts of flaxseed during the year aggregated 10,299,525 bushels, and shipments 5,734,654 bushels, as against 8,525,237 bushels and 4,726,818 bushels, respectively, during 1895, and 5.102,668 bushels and 2,353,757 bushels, respectively, during Estimates of the crop ranged from 13,500,000 bushels to 19,000,000 bushels, but most of the authorities placed the crop at about 18,000,000 bushels. The enormous yield being in excess of the domestic requirements produced a decline to 85 cents early in the season and gave rise to an export demand; but, unfortunately, European stocks were also large and a sharp decline in prices soon followed, until 63 cents was reached, which was the lowest price known in the history of the trade. At this point, extensive speculative holdings were thrown upon the market, which added to the depression, and theories based upon the fact that prices were very much lower than were ever before known, were abandoned. Owing to a severe stringency in the money market, shipments from the country were large and the market was utterly devoid of interest. Subsequently, reports of serious damage to the South American crop of wheat as well as of flax-seed, gave animation to the market and restored confidence in prices to such an extent, that an advance of 15 cents per bushel was realized.

The export demand which followed, quickly subsided upon an advance in price and in ocean freight rates. Now appeared quite a demand from crushers for cash seed, but a larger one for future delivery. During the closing months of the year a strong speculative interest visited the market, resulting from low prices as compared with prices of wheat. It was thought that wheat could not advance materially, while on the other hand there was more than a strong probability that flaxseed would advance and come nearer to the price of wheat. This expectation, however, under the exceptionally depressed conditions which prevailed, was not realized. The lowest prices prevailed in August and September, and the highest in January, and the range during December was from $71\frac{1}{2}$ to $79\frac{1}{2}$ cents per bushel.

The exports of flaxseed for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, aggregated 80,453 bushels, valued at $73,207.

Estimates of the crop of 1895 were from 13,000,000 to 15,000,000 bushels, but the large movement at the end of the season indicated that the crop aggregated nearly 17,000,000 bushels.

LIVE STOCK AND PROVISION TRADE.

The number of cattle received in this market during the year was 2,600,476 as against 2,588,558 in 1895, 2,974,363 in 1894 and 3,133,406 in 1893. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad brought in more than did any other railroad. A full statement of the receipts by the various railway lines may be found on page 39. The trade during the year was fair, especially when is considered the conditions of business generally throughout the country. Under ordinary circumstances the abundance and cheapness of corn would have had the effect of not hurrying cattle to market, but the severe stringency in the money market caused feeders to ship their cattle to market regardless of market values. financial condition was the controlling factor. Heavy-weight cattle sold for about 75 cents lower, while the smaller cattle declined upon an average of about 20 cents, as compared with prices of the preceding year. The financial stringency had the effect of increasing the demand for light-weight cattle, so that there was a large decline in the prices of heavy, prime, ripened beeves. The average price for cows and heifers was about $2.65, or 20 cents per Steers from the western ranches aver-100 lbs. less than in 1895. aged $3.50 and those from Texas $3.30. The foreign demand was an improvement over that of 1895. Shipments from Canada via Atlantic ports were unusually large, and the continuance of this demand brought Canadian buyers to our market. Owing to a peculiar combination of circumstances the number of cattle in Texas in preparation for marketing is materially less than usual, and we may look for better prices of this description another year. The number of cattle exported during the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, was 372,461, valued at $34,560,672, as against 331,-722, valued at $30,603,769, exported during 1895. On page 46 may be seen a statement of prices throughout the year. number of cattle on farms in the United States on January 1st, 1897, was 30,508,408, valued at $507,929,421.

The receipts of sheep during the year aggregated 3,590,655 head, as against 3,406,739 head in 1895 and 3,099,725 head in 1894; the shipments aggregated 561,239 head, as against 474,646 head in 1895 and 333,398 head in 1894. The number used for city consumption and packing in 1896 was 3,029,416. A detailed statement of receipts and shipments may be seen on page 39, showing the various railways over which received and shipped, and also showing the number received and shipped each month. The number of sheep received exceeds that in any previous year, averaging about 10,000 head a day. The sheep-raising industry is growing every year; the quality of sheep is being improved, especially of those raised in our northwestern and western tracts of pasturage. The market held quite a steady course throughout Our merchants kept the channels of trade free and with characteristic alacrity conformed to existing conditions. portion of lambs received was noticeable and was unusually large. Fortunate, indeed, for the west and for the country that the Chicago market is possessed of such unequaled facilities, not only to dispose of such stupendous supplies from the great Mississippi Valley but of converting them instantly into money. The number of sheep exported from the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, was 491,565, valued at $3,076,384. United Kingdom took most of them. The number exported the year before was 405,748, valued at $2,630,686. The weekly range of prices may be seen on page 46. The closing prices of the year were fairly satisfactory, viz., from $2.00 to $4.00 for native sheep; western from $3.40 to $3.75, and lambs from $3.50 to $5.25.

The receipts of hogs during the year numbered 7,659,472 and shipments 1,896,312, as against 7,885,283 and 2,100,613, respectively, in 1895, and 7,483,228 and 2,465,058, respectively, in 1894. The average weight of hogs received during 1896 was 246 lbs., as against 230 lbs. in 1895, 233 lbs. in 1894 and 240 lbs. in 1893. The number of hogs slaughtered in Chicago during the year was The quality of receipts was superior to that of 1895, and the supply of pigs was less than usual, owing to an abundance of cheap corn of excellent quality. Twelve of our big packing-houses were in operation during the greater part of the year. Prices were lower than for the year preceding, the range being from $2.45 to $4.45 per 100 pounds. It is estimated that the average price was nearly, if not quite, $1.00 per 100 lbs. lower Considering all the industrial and financial surthan in 1895. rounding conditions, prices were remarkably well sustained. number of hogs exported was 21,049, of which 17,540 went to Mexico, 1,793 to British Columbia and 972 to the Hawaiian Islands.

Through the kindness of Mr. J. C. Denison, the Secretary of the Stock Yards, the following table, showing receipts of live stock for each year, from 1880 to 1896, inclusive, is submitted:

The number of hogs on farms and ranches in the United States on the 1st of January, 1897, was 40,600,276.

The market for mess pork opened at from $8.62\frac{1}{2} to $8.65 per barrel, but a decided advance soon followed, caused by a conviction that the supply of hogs was small. This conviction was strengthened by a decrease of arrivals in the western markets. On the 17th of January sales were made at from $10.05 to $10.15 per barrel, and after a little lull in the market, quotations increased to $10.45 and $10.50. Then followed an advance in the price of hogs, which stimulated receipts. Prices, however, were still fully maintained and a brisk demand continued throughout the month, closing on the 31st at from $10.30 to $10.57\frac{1}{2}, and on the first of February, $10.67½ was attained. It, however, soon became demonstrated that the expectation of a shortage in the supply of hogs was fallacious, and that the reported hog cholera was an exaggeration. As a consequence, the demand diminished and prices declined to such a degree that quotations on the last of February were from $9.50 to $9.60 per barrel. A slight improvement occurred during the early part of March, and a not inconsiderable business was done at from about $9.60 to $9.85, but during the latter portion of that month the market became weak, and a gradual decline resulted in sales on the 31st, at $8.25 per barrel. Slight rallies, occasioned by a decrease in receipts, caused the April market to react to $8.62\frac{1}{2}. The May market was one of decided weakness; the lowest price was $6.95 and the highest $8.10. Prices in June did not vary much from $7.00, the lowest price during the month being $6.85 and the highest $7.20.

The July market was very dull, ranging between $6.90 on the 1st and 2d and $5.95 on the 27th. Early in August there were signs of an improvement, but they vanished about the middle of the month and $5.55 was all that could be quoted on the 31st. September trade was on a slightly higher level, but no substantial advance was gained until about the 13th of October, when $7.50 was realized. The November trade was not sufficiently active to hold the ground acquired, and $6.30 was the quotation on the 19th instant. The market, however, at the close of the month, was about $7.00 per barrel. The trade in December was slow and in buyers' favor, prices ranging languidly between $6.50 and $7.00 per barrel. The average price for the year was $7.55 per barrel.

The course of the market has no parallel in the history of the trade, and was brought about by a larger supply of hogs than was supposed to exist, a perfectly immense corn crop and a financial depression, widespread, intense and continuous. That the business in this product has so adapted itself to these almost ruinous conditions and has escaped disaster, is marvelous.

The exports of pickled pork for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1896, aggregated 69,498,373 pounds, valued at $3,973,461, and were made in large quantities, to the United Kingdom, Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland and Labrador, West Indies and to South America.

The market for lard was, at the very outset, handicapped by excessive stocks at chief points of supply. Our packers, notwithstanding the low prices which prevailed, were at all times ready to meet the market promptly and fully, and in spite of most untoward circumstances transacted a reasonably satisfactory business throughout the year. Sales at the beginning of the year were made at from $$5.27\frac{1}{2}$$ to \$5.30 per 100 pounds; the course of the market during January was moderately encouraging, the closing quotation being \$5.75. Soon after February 1st, prices began to decline, and sales were made on the 29th at \$5.30. The market in March was, after the 18th, a very weak one. This weakness continued and increased in April, when sales ranged from \$4.67 $\frac{1}{2}$ to \$5.07 $\frac{1}{2}$. The trade during May was, after a period of such protracted dullness as prevailed during the preceding month, almost disheartening. Still conditions were bravely met, and sales ranged from \$4.10 to \$4.80. The month of June brought a despondency which found expression in sales made at from \$3.85 to \$4.27½ per 100 pounds. It was reserved for July to produce a market, which, for depression and demoralization, was absolutely unequaled; the lowest price during the month was \$3.10 and the highest \$3.90. August prices ranged from \$3.10 to \$3.45. The trade during September presented some symptoms of an improvement, and though there was no material change in the first half of the month, prices advanced to \$3.82 $\frac{1}{2}$ on the 28th. During October, confidence continued, and a few sales were made at \$4.50. In November the tone of the market was lost and prices fell off to that extent, that the range was from \$3.70 to \$4.30, the latter price holding but a brief time early in the month.

Prices during December fluctuated between $3.70 and $3.95, closing at from $3.80 to $3.82½ per 100 pounds. The exports for the fiscal year aggregated 509,534,256 pounds, valued at $33,589,851, as against 474,895,274 pounds, valued at $36,821,508, exported in 1895. Of the quantity exported in 1896, 201,924,144 pounds were shipped to the United Kingdom, 121,893,903 pounds to Germany, 32,998,546 pounds to the Netherlands, 32,093,211 pounds to France, 30,182,418 pounds to Belgium and 26,218,302 pounds to Cuba.

RAILWAYS.

The number of miles of railway in operation in the United Illinois contains 10,610 miles of railroad; States is 161,020. more than are contained in any other state in the Union. The next state in order is Pennsylvania with 9,661 miles; then follow in order of railway mileage the states of Texas, Kansas, Ohio, Iowa, New York, Michigan, Missouri, Minnesota and Nebraska—the latter state containing 5,542 miles. According to the department of railways of the Ministry of Public Works in France, the length of railway lines in operation in Europe, on the 31st of December, 1895, was 253,391 kilometers or 156,114 miles; Germany on that date had 46,451 kilometers, France 40,209, Russia 35,323, Great Britain and Ireland 34,058, Austria-Hungary 30,899, Italy 15,057 and Spain 12,052. Russia is increasing its net of railways at a tremendous rate. In 1895 it took the lead with an increase of more than 2,012 kilometers, not including the Transcaspian or Siberian railroad. Germany increased its lines 989 kilometers; Sweden 521 kilometers, Italy 431 kilometers, England 417 kilometers, Spain 295 kilometers, and France 230 kilometers.

In an interesting report of the German Imperial Commissioners, published in the Cronica de Ferrocarriles of Madrid, on October 21st, 1896, it appears that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad is one of the world's best roads with its express train from New York to Chicago covering 1,560 kilometers (969 miles) in twenty hours, or at an average rate of speed of $48\frac{1}{2}$ miles per hour—29.8 miles of the distance was made at the rate of 64 miles per 60 minutes. From Leipsic to Rome, a distance of 945 miles, or 1,523 kilometers, the trip is made in 35 hours. In a trial trip made on the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, reported by the commissioners, a regular train, with coaches weighing 149 tons, was hauled over 5 miles, at an hourly average of 86 miles, and over a horizontal surface of one mile in extent, at an hourly average of $102\frac{1}{2}$ miles. By a comparison of distances between prominent European points by rail and of time occupied in covering such distances, with the corresponding facts in this country, we realize not only the superiority of American railway lines in regard to speed, but also the impetus imparted to railroad travel in the United States. Rapid and luxurious transportation of persons leads to increased frequency of exchange of commodities, stimulates enterprise and promotes the common welfare. I invite comparison of the following data, with the time of regular express trains from New York to Chicago, as stated above, viz; 969 miles, in 20 hours, showing an average rate of speed of 48½ miles per hour; from Ostend to Vienna, a distance of 821 miles, the trip is made in from 23 to 25 hours, or at the rate of 35.3 miles per hour; from Paris to Constantinople, a distance 1,892 miles, the time is 65.4 hours, or at the rate of 29 miles per hour; from Ostend to Eydtkuhnen, a distance of 1,045 miles, the run is made in 27.1 hours, or at the rate of $38\frac{1}{2}$ miles per hour; from Paris to Lisbon, 1,175 miles, the schedule time is 39.51 hours, or on an average of 29.7 miles per hour; from Calais to Brindisi, 1,380 miles, the journey is made in 40.35 hours, equal to an average of 34 miles per hour; the distance from Paris to Nice, 676 miles, is covered in 17.3 hours, or at the rate of 39 miles per hour. The above are the European trains which save time by using the Belgian system of through sleeping cars and avoiding delays arising from changes of all kinds which often seriously annoy the traveller accustomed to American railways. The ordinary international trains are much slower than those "Fast trains" from Berlin to Madrid, covering a distance of 1,573 miles, make the trip in 56 hours or on an average of 28 This slow rate is due to the limited capacity miles per hour. of the continental, especially the German, locomotives. railway cars used in the United States, the imperial commissioners assert, are models of comfort, easy riding and convenience. The rapidity, safety, comfort and cheapness of transporting passengers and traffic, account more directly than anything else for the unparalleled commercial and agricultural development of the United States. Let the people see to it that these unequaled facilities for the transportation of persons and property, are distributed with an impartial hand, and that the natural and inherent rights of the people, in this regard, are observed and secured. To this end the Inter-State Commerce Law was created, and for this end it must be upheld. The law is salutary; it is elastic in respect to carriers; it is tentative in its character; it embodies no new principle; it is in consonance with enlightened public policy; its provisions announce well settled principles of common law applied to common carriers, and whatever difficulties have been or may be encountered in its administration, it must prevail and be so thoroughly imbedded in the legislation and jurisprudence of the country, that the smallest shipper shall feel its care while the largest shall not be exempt from its power.

Respectfully yours, GEORGE F. STONE,

Secretary.

CHICAGO, January 5, 1897.

This is to certify that the foregoing report of the receipts and expenditures of the Board of Trade of the City of Chicago for the fiscal year ending January 5, 1897, is true and correct. I audited all the books of accounts, proved the record of receipts and disbursements, and examined all vouchers.

WM. FRIES,

JANUARY 9, 1897.

Auditor.

The total bonded indebtedness of the Board remains the same as it was one year ago, viz: $1,250,000.

The receipts derived from rent of offices in the Board of Trade building amount to $109,395.16, as compared with $106,648.60 in the year 1895, and $109,841.77 during the year 1894.

Expenditures real estate account during the year have been on the following accounts:

Interest on bonds	$59,545	00
Taxes	39.515	45
Insurance	9,328	98
Construction account, 1895 and 1896	19,550	25
Expenses, including salaries of engineers, janitors,		•
firemen, elevator attendance, etc., repairs, fuel, light, water	50,759	17
Construction of 1894 (payment enjoined)	12.075	00

The present membership in this association is 1,840, and the number of transfers made during the year was 150, yielding a revenue of $3,750.00.

In accordance with the recommendation of the President at the last annual meeting, which received the unanimous support of the association, your Directory has made every effort to suppress bucket-shops and to bring all those connected with them to condign punishment. Its efforts have met with signal success. Your Directors recommend that such continued and vigilant attention be directed against bucket-shops and bucket-shop methods as will render this pernicious imposition upon the community unsafe and utterly disreputable.

At various times during the last few years the engineer of the board has called attention to the fact that the machinery in our building was being over-taxed, especially our engines and dynamos; and also, that our elevator machinery was in need of thorough repair. The views of the engineer being confirmed by outside experts, your Directors decided to put in, substantially, a new plant.

The Board of Underwriters condemned the system of electrical wiring formerly used in our building, which rendered it absolutely necessary to re-wire the entire building. The work was done in the most approved and thorough manner in accordance with the plans submitted by our electrical engineer. To supply the electricity required by these changes there were installed two new dynamos, and as the compound engines required a higher steam pressure than our old boilers could supply, these were replaced by five new boilers constructed of heavy steel.

There has also been added a condenser and cooling apparatus the working of which shows a marked saving in expense. Your Directors decided to replace the old hydraulic elevators by the Sprague Electrical Elevators.

The old method of driving our ventilator fans by rope transmission was replaced by electrical methods.

A short-lift elevator has been constructed to run from the ground floor to the Exchange Hall floor, which, besides relieving the other elevators from excessive loads, and providing greatly improved elevator service to the tenants of our building, is of special advantage to the members of the Board during the hours of 'change.

Your Directory, also, has made a much needed change in the old "Call Room," so that it is now used as a Visitors' Room and is of great convenience both to the members of the Board and their customers.

In order to arrive at an estimate of the value of this room to members of the Board, your Directors caused an investigation to be made of the number of entrances to the room during the session of the Board, which result shows from 4,500 to 5,000 entries during a single session.

Your Board of Directors is satisfied that the expenditures connected with the Board of Trade Building have been abundantly justified in the light of efficiency, safety and economy.

Every room in the Board of Trade Building is now rented.

An arrangement has been made by which a reduction of $1,250.00 per annum has been secured in the rate of insurance paid on the building.

Your Board of Directors has placed the assessment for the ensuing fiscal year at $70.00, and is gratified that, notwithstanding extraordinary though necessary expenditures, it was not obliged to make the assessment for any larger sum.

The receipts of grain and flour in its grain equivalent aggregated in 1896, 253,802,134 bushels, as compared with 189,432,819 bushels in 1895, and 187,553,469 bushels in 1894; and the shipments aggregated in 1896, 219,710,781 bushels, as compared with 171,464,137 bushels in 1895, and 148,638,822 bushels in 1894.

The number of cattle, hogs and sheep arrived in the market during the year was 13,850,603, valued at $179,876,997; as compared with 14,162,513 arrived during 1895, valued at $200,584,380.

The shipments of meat in a great variety of forms during the year aggregated 1,729,375,732 pounds, as compared with 1,697,953,766 pounds in 1895, and 1,750, 376.155 pounds in 1894; of pork during the year 1896, aggregated 258,266 barrels, as compared with 300,029 barrels in 1895, and 222,676 barrels in 1894.

The amount of clearances reported by the Board of Trade Clearing House for the year 1896 was $81,814,059.63, and the aggregated balances for the year amounted to $29,064,348.19, as against $78,133,437.50 and $28,726,490.75, respectively, for the year 1895.

After the payment of all bills the Clearing House paid to the association $5,350.15, which is $1,631.88 more than the revenue derived from the business of 1895.

Your Committee on Transportation has frequently convened for the consideration of questions within the scope of its jurisdiction and has, in co-operation with the Chicago Freight Bureau, guarded the interests of shippers and receivers against all acts or contemplated acts on the part of railroads, inimical to Chicago or in violation of equity in freight rates and in terminal facilities.

Your committee trusts that members of the Board will bring all matters to its attention, however apparently trivial, involving the principle which should govern the distribution of transportation privileges, viz.: absolute equality of the patrons of transportation lines with respect to freight rates, and an impartial enjoyment of all the advantages which railways are empowered to confer.

The Commissioner of the Freight Bureau, whose ability and experience peculiarly qualify him to deal with transportation problems and the intricacies of tariff schedules, will in due time make his report, which will show in detail the work of the committee and the important questions which have engaged its attention during the year. It is only by incessant watchfulness that encroachments upon the rights of the public by transportation lines can be prevented and railway managers reminded that railroads were made for the public and not the public for railroads.

Your Committee believes that the adoption of a uniform classification, as proposed and set forth in Senate Document No. 120, introduced by Senator Cullom, would solve many problems which now vex the business of the country. The adoption of this document is earnestly advocated by the National Transportation Association, and by the principal organizations of the country.

Your Membership Committee has held regular weekly meetings for the examination of all applicants for membership, as to their fitness to participate in the privileges of this Association. Your Committee unhesitatingly withholds its approval from all applicants who are, or who have been, directly or indirectly connected with "Bucket-Shops," and requires in every instance a written statement under oath that they will not, under any circumstances, engage in or be in any way connected with the "Bucket-Shop" business.

It submits its report in detail at a regular meeting of the Board of Directors and no applicant is approved unless he receives at least ten affirmative ballot votes of the Directory.

Your Committee on Meteorological Observations has been very courteously and materially aided in the discharge of its duties by Prof. Garriott of the Weather Bureau, and is pleased to acknowledge the cordial co-operation of this efficient government officer in providing the members of the board with the latest and most reliable meteorological data, valuable not only to the members of this association but to their numerous correspondents throughout the Northwest.

Your Committee on Legal Advice has been called upon frequently to consider, with the attorney of the board, questions that have arisen before the various tribunals of this association with reference to the rules of the board and their relation to the laws of the state. The duties of the committee are exceedingly important and much depends upon the care with which these duties are performed.

In the last report of your Directory it was stated that Harry M. Greene had filed a bill in the Superior Court of Cook County for an injunction, the object of which was to restrain the Board of Trade from trying him upon charges that had been preferred against him. A temporary injunction was issued, and thereupon the attorney of the board moved to dissolve the injunction and dismiss the bill. After argument this motion was granted and the bill was dismissed. Greene then appealed to the Appellate Court where the decree of the Superior Court was affirmed; the Appellate Court holding that a bill cannot be maintained under any circumstances against the Board of Trade or its Directors to restrain the Board of Directors from trying a member upon charges preferred.

In regard to the petition filed in the Superior Court of Cook County by H. H. Baumann for a writ of certiorari against the Board of Trade, the object of which was to restore him to membership, the attorney prepared and filed a return, and no attempt has been made by Baldwin's attorney to have the case tried.

During the year Francis J. Kennett and John F. Harris were suspended from the privileges of the Board. Each of them thereupon filed a petition of mandamus to be restored to the privileges of membership. The cases were argued before Judge Windes, who held that Kennett had no case entitling him to be restored, but that on account of the admission of certain testimony on file before the Board of Directors, Harris was entitled to maintain his petition of mandamus. Since that time the Board of Directors, on the petition of Harris, has restored him to membership. The Kennett case has not yet been appealed by his attorney. It is proper to observe here that these cases were heard before the Murry Nelson case was finally decided by the Supreme Court.

Since the last report the Murry Nelson case has been heard and decided by the Supreme Court of the State in favor of the Board of Trade, in a decision of great importance, which finally settles the question involved. That opinion holds that where a member has been suspended or expelled, the board was exercising its disciplinary powers, and that no court will interfere with the exercise of such powers; that the trial before the directors is a trial before a tribunal of the members' own choosing and that where they have jurisdiction over the member and the subject matter, the courts will not interfere with their decisions.

This decision is of incalculable value to the board, and renders it hopeless to undertake to overthrow the decisions of the Board of Directors or even to review them by proceedings in courts.

During the year a number of cases were filed by the Attorney-General against the elevator proprietors. These cases were heard before Judge Tuley, and he decided that the elevator proprietors had not the right to deal in grain. A copy of the opinion in full may be had upon application to the secretary. This opinion absolutely supports the doctrine which has been insisted upon by your Directory from the beginning of the elevator controversy, viz.: That a licensed custodian of property, upon whom the state confers special and exceptional facilities and prerogatives, for the discharge of a public trust and for the general welfare, has no shadow of right whatsoever, either directly or indirectly, to use such facility and prerogatives for the promotion of his private interests.

It is gratifying to call your attention to the fact that no case in the last seven years to which the Board of Trade of the city of Chicago has been a party, has been decided adversely to the board.

Your Committee on Flaxseed Inspection has performed the duties which devolved upon its members, and has frequently conferred with our efficient Chief Inspector of Flaxseed in order that the reasonableness and integrity of our inspection may be properly understood and appreciated. The trade is kept fully, systematically and accurately informed of receipts, shipments and stocks.

The receipts of flaxseed during the year aggregated 10,299,525 bushels, and the shipments 5,734,654; as compared with 8,525,257 bushels and 4,726,818 bushels respectively, during 1895. The quantity of flaxseed stored in regular elevators and afloat in Chicago at the close of the business December 26th, 1896, aggregated 2,043,657 bushels, as against 895,177 bushels upon the corresponding date in 1895.

Your Warehouse Committee has attended to its duties as prescribed by the rules of the board, and has exercised great care that warehouses declared regular warehouses for the storage of grain and flaxseed have conformed to all the requirements laid down in the rules and regulations of the Board. The Committee on Weighing is gratified to report that notwithstanding a large increase in the volume of grain weighed over that weighed during the preceding year, no serious complaints have been brought to its attention.

Your Committee on Market Reports has considered its duties among the most important of those of any standing committee of the Association. It has therefore from time to time made diligent inquiry among the members of the board as to the wants of the trade with reference to prices in other markets of the various commodities dealt in by members of our exchange. It has also done much to facilitate the prompt delivery of telegrams and cables, so that quotations and other information concerning both foreign and domestic markets may be placed before our members as early as possible. In addition, your committee has also bestowed special attention to quotations of grain and provisions in foreign markets, and to the movement of grain and the condition of crops from the principal wheat growing countries, notably South America, Australia and India.

In cases where there was the slightest ambiguity in messages, the committee has withheld posting such messages until they should be made clear, and has impressed upon our foreign correspondents the necessity of promptness and reliability regarding messages sent to this board. Your committee trusts that its labors have resulted in improving the service concerning the transmission of market intelligence to members of this association.

Your Committee on Flour Inspection has not frequently been called upon, as few controversies have arisen between buyer and seller, and the duties of our Chief Inspector of Flour have been satisfactorily performed.

Your Committee on Provision Inspection has carefully investigated the various applications made for warehouses to be declared regular for the storage of provisions. It has found that the warehouses declared regular warehouses under the rules of the board for the storage of provisions fulfill in all respects the requirements of the Board of Directors for provision warehouses. To this committee have been referred all cases of disagreement between the buyer and the seller of provisions, and its good offices have been so effective that no case with reference to inspection of provisions has been presented for adjustment before any tribunals of this board.

Your Clearing House Committee derives great satisfaction in presenting to the board the annual statement of the Chicago Board of Trade Clearing House for the year. This statement shows that the business of the members of the board has been larger and more profitable than during the year preceding. This is especially gratifying in view of the fact that the clearances of 1895 were very considerably in excess of those for the year 1894. The amount of clearances, as elsewhere stated in the report, was $81,814,059.63, and total profits derived from the clearing house during the year was $6,190.90.

The duties which devolved upon your Committee on Rooms have perhaps been more frequent than those which have devolved upon any other of the standing committees of the board. These delicate duties have been discharged with good judgment, so that while every courtesy has been extended to visitors, the privileges of the Exchange Room have been discreetly dispensed. The members of the committee highly appreciate the co-operation of their fellow members in the discharge of their duties.

Your Committee on Finance held its meetings regularly to inspect and certify to the correctness of the bills of the board and to pass upon all expenditures. The accounts of the association have been duly presented and its expenditures properly vouched for, and verified by an expert accountant.

Fellow members of the Board of Trade:

In accepting the office to which you have a fifth time elected me, I acknowledge the obligation due you for the unusual honor, and shall endeavor to show my appreciation of it by such fidelity and care for the interests of this Board as my limitations will permit.

. I congratulate the members of this board on a fairly prosperous business during the past year, and on the prospect of still bet-The year has been marked by most alarming ter times to come. vicissitudes in all branches of business in this country, and I therefore felicitate you that failures have been almost unknown among us, and that you have closed the year generally with a balance on the right side of the ledger. I sincerely hope the improvement in business here is the harbinger of prosperity for the whole country, for we can hardly expect permanent improvement in which all branches of industry do not share. We are therefore justified in exerting our influence whenever we can do so in the direction of improving present conditions, and especially for such congressional enactments as will relieve us from the peril that has already nearly wrecked the country.

Politics and business have become so closely allied that we can scarcely discuss business concerns of the first importance to every one without inviting the imputation of partisanship. The tendency of our time forbids the hope of such an Utopian condition that merely academic discussion of National questions will be possible. The people have so long been taught that the principal function of government is to do something for everybody, that every citizen looks to Washington with hope and fear, and it is only by frank expressions of business men that vital errors may be avoided. We owe it to ourselves, therefore, and to the business community of which we are a part, to give vigorous expression of our views on business questions on which legislation by Congress is likely or desirable. There is no place where such questions can be discussed more dispassionately than in this Board of Trade, for no member of it is or expects to be a beneficiary of any Act of Congress further than any citizen is benefited by honest legislation for the public good. The currency question is as far from being settled as it has been at any time since the repeal of the Sherman Act. All the machinery for precipitating the country to a silver basis is in perfect order, and ready to operate whenever anything occurs to arouse suspicion or start alarm. It is criminal folly for business men to lapse into indifference again until the treasury surplus approaches the danger line. It is positively monstrous that the whole business fabric of this country and the honor and credit of the government should be permitted to continue at the mercy of circumstances that may arise at any time, and are as sure to arise some time in the future as they have already in the recent past. The last election barely extinguished the burning fuse that led to the mine, but the mine is still there, and the danger, though less imminent, is just as great as it has always been since our currency laws were enacted. It is the paramount duty of Congress to revise these laws, to take the government out of the banking business by retiring all its demand notes and substituting National bank notes redeemable in gold. Practically the only issue in the last campaign was the money issue. Familiar questions of political economy were either ignored or perfunctorily discussed as evidence of party consistency, but the appeal to the intelligent electorate was for honest money, and more than two millions of voters laid aside their most cherished convictions in voting with the majority to save the National honor. I believe they now have a right to demand that those with whom they voted shall be equally patriotic, and put all other party questions behind them until the currency question, on which they were agreed, is settled and settled forever. The people can afford to wait for increased taxation, but they can not afford to wait for that return of confidence which a proper reform of our currency laws will bring about, and which nothing else in the way of legislation will accomplish.

The question between the board and the elevator proprietors has reached a decision in the Circuit Court in our favor on every controverted point. The decision of Judge Tuley is so comprehensive and convincing that the elevator proprietors can hardly hope to have it reversed by the Supreme Court, though they have taken an appeal. I earnestly recommend that no backward step be taken by this board. There has been nothing in the events of the past year to make the elevator monopoly more endurable.

Their control of the property of which they should be simply guardians or trustees, the property which does not belong to them but to the members of this board to whom they have sold it, has enabled them not only to manipulate prices, but to create intolerable obstructions to the free current of commerce which it is the most important function of this board to foster. The legitimate storage charge is no longer a prime consideration with them. Their alliance with the railroads, and the privileges and immunities enjoyed by them on this board enables them to levy tribute on producer and consumer alike, while the centralization of the control of stocks of grain in store robs the banker and the common carrier of the legitimate advantage of competition that would come with a restoration of the natural order of business. board has never questioned the right of any of its members to deal in grain and store it in their own warehouses, but when its members elect to do such business they should not at the same time become public warehousemen with the stamp of regularity on their warehouse receipts. The opportunity to select and sell at a premium the best of a grade while offering holders of their receipts the poorest, is a manifest injustice and contrary to public policy. The market price is always based on the least desirable, while for the better qualities such a premium as the necessities or desires of consumers may warrant, is exacted by the custodians of the property who do not even pretend to be its real owners. well-known fact that the poorest quality that is deliverable on contracts establishes the price of the entire stock in store, and to a certain extent depresses the general market, is a constant injustice to producers in all the territority tributary to our market. It is an application the of principles of the Gresham law to the familiar operations of the grain market that must be intelligible The integrity of the system of grain inspection in this city is of vital importance to this board. All the grain inspected in this district is marketed on our exchange, and though we have no voice in the management of the inspection department, yet our credit is impaired and our business injured by its in-When the inspection of grain was surrendered by efficiency. this board to the State in compliance with the warehouse law, we had reason to expect faithful and uniform administration of the service. For many years we had no ground for serious complaint, but it has gradually become a useful part of machine politics, and ward heelers are crowded upon the pay rolls without regard to the technical requirements of the work. The inspection department should be placed under the merit system, and the legislature should be petitioned to pass a bill to this end. An effort was made at the last meeting of the legislature to accomplish this but failed. If such an act can not be passed by the present legislature, it may be well to consider the propriety of asserting our rights under our charter and have our own inspection system.

The extermination of bucket-shops should continue to be the aim of this board. It is no longer necessary to explain their practices to convince the community of their viciousness. The public has come to understand their pernicious effects and their demoralizing influence. They furnish the most attractive gambling hells in every city and village where they can effect a lodgment, and are more dangerous to public morals than other forms of gambling because of their quasi respectability and immunity from police raids. Their proprietors are without exception thieves and swindlers.

Bucket-shops and pool-rooms are twin outlaws in nearly every state in the Union. Their united corruption fund has enabled them to baffle justice by debauchery of the constituted authority for the investigation and prosecution of crime, but they could not continue in existence a day but for their alliance with the Western Union Telegraph Company. That company furnishes all the machinery and all the news on which bets are laid, and it is the only telegraph company in the United States that leases wires for the private use of bucket-shops in swindling their patrons. The spectacle of a corporation with a hundred million dollars capital paying dividends gleaned from the vice and crime of the country is one to make any American blush. Contrast this with the conduct of some of the great newspapers of this city, which cannot be hired to print the harmless appearing advertisements of bucketshops. It may be said that a great commercial organization like this has no need to concern itself with questions of morals, but the ethics of business are based on a high standard of commercial morality, which it is our duty to preach and to practice. When we see our efforts to rid ourselves of the incubus of bucket-shops embarrassed by such a condition as is here outlined, we find our self-interest exalted by our patriotic duty as citizens in striking down a wrong. The crusade in which we have been so long engaged will not cease. Complete success will, however, be hastened by our maintaining among ourselves an unimpeachable standard of business honor. Our rules are based on such a standard, and if any member is unfaithful to them, it is your duty, individually, to expose the derelict and aid your officers in purging your membership of any who are found unworthy to enjoy its privileges.

Let us enter upon the new year with a renewed pledge of loyalty to this great exchange and a determination to keep its honor above suspicion, so that our membership in it may be a source of pride and gratification to us and to our children.

Note.—Prior to the year 1820 no official records of the arrival of alien passengers were kept. It is estimated, however, that the total number arriving in the United States from the foundation of the government to the year 1820 was 250,000.

Up to the year 1856 no record was kept of immigrants in distinction from the arrival of alien passengers.

The total number of European immigrants for the last fiscal year was 329,067.
Of the total number of immigrants for the year, 212,466 were males and 130,801 were females.
The year ending June 30, 1882, was the year of the greatest immigration.
Owing to the absence of law for the collection of statistics in relation to immigrants by railroads, those from the British North American possessions and from Mexico are not included since July 1, 1885.

Note.—Up to 1850 only the aggregate valuations in the several counties were reported to the State officers, and from 1852 to 1857, inclusive, a few counties returned only the aggregates; hence the details of real estate and personal property valuations are not complete for those years. In 1867 and 1868 the details of valuation are not entirely correct, owing to changes by the operation of the equalization law. Since 1868 the valuations are as equalized. The total valuations in each of the several years are correct and official.

The valuations for 1873 as equalized are largely in excess of any previous year. In 1874 some changes were made in the manner of equalizing the assessments, resulting in reducing all the valuations, especially those of railroad property.

The State debt, as noted, represents it as it stood on the 1st of January in each of the several years to 1869; in 1869 and 1870, as it stood December 1; in 1871, as it stood December 31; from 1872 to 1879, as it stood December 1

Norm.—From 1851 to 1862, inclusive, a lamp tax of half a mill to two mills was levied on certain portions of the city, and is included in the above total tax. The city dcbt as noted represents it as it stood on February 10 in 1852 to 1854, inclusive; on February 11 in 1855 to 1851, inclusive; on April 1 in 1862 to 1874, inclusive; and on Dec. 31, since 1874. Valuations for 1875 to 1883, inclusive, are by the county assessment, as equalized by the State Board of Equalization, and in some of these years do not include railroad property. The city tax on railroad property for 1882 and 1883, something over $100,000 for each year, is not included in the above total tax. The above figures for 1889 include the districts annexed to the city of Chicago July 15 of that year.

Nore—In the above table the estimated yield per acre was, up to 1884, that of the best authorities, helped by a calculation of the results in each season; in the following years the Government figures have been adopted. In estimating the rate of consumption the conventional rate of 5% bushels per capita is taken up to 1880-81, since when the rate of 5.6 bushels per capita has been assumed, such being considered nearer the actual consumption.

And furthermore, the proprietors or managers of such warehouse shall be required to sell their regular contract grades of grain or flax seed in the Chicago market only, and shall not ship any grain from any regular warehouse, of which they are proprietors or managers, except those grades which are denominated and understood to be "off grades"; provided, however, that the Board of Directors of the Board of Trade may, upon application, grant to such elevator proprietors or managers the privilege of shipping such quantity of grain from their elevators as will sufficiently relieve such elevators from being overloaded, or as will maintain the condition of such grain; and furthermore, the proprietors or managers of such warehouse shall be prohibited from buying grain at any non-competing points.

Other storage room may be provided in case of necessity.

Provided, that the Board of Directors shall have power, when in their judgment an emergency exists requiring more storage room than can be supplied by the regular elevator warehouses, to declare any storehouses, vessels, or places suitable for the storage of grain or flax seed within the city limits—wherein the cost of delivery to vessels or railroad cars shall not be greater than such as is made by the regular elevators for the same service—to be regular places for the storage of grain deliverable under the Rules of the Board of Trade.

And provided further, that in case it shall happen that at any time there shall be no warehouses which shall be regular warehouses for the storage of grain and flax seed, then the Board of Directors may declare any warehouses suitable for the storage of grain or flax seed, whose aggregate capacity shall not exceed twelve million (12,000,000) bushels, regular warehouses for the storage of grain or flax seed, upon such terms and for such period as the Board of Directors in its discretion may deem necessary or proper, and the warehouse receipts issued by warehouses so declared regular under this proviso, shall be regular for delivery on contracts under the Rules of the Board of Trade, in the same manner as if issued by warehouses declared regular under the foregoing provisions of this section in regard to declaring warehouses regular for the term ending on the first day of July in each year.
